

GOP Wins at Polls in Maine

Eight States Vote Today In Primaries

Portland—(P)—Maine Republicans claimed today they had given Wendell Willkie's White House aspirations a major boost as GOP nominees piled up smashing pluralities for all top-ranking offices in the first state-wide election of 1940.

Downing their Democratic opponents by margins that for the most part far exceeded those of 1936, the last presidential year, as well as those for the off-year of 1938, Republican candidates captured a United States senate seat, the governorship and three places in the United States house.

Representative Ralph O. Brewster, the new senator-elect, who defeated former Democratic Governor Louis J. Brann by approximately 40,000 votes in a race for the top of the ticket, said he was "promptly issued this statement:

Willkie Against Delaying Draft For Sixty Days

Hopes Amendment Will Be Eliminated From Bill by Congress

Rushville, Ind.—(P)—Wendell Willkie expressed hope today that senate-house conferees would eliminate from the selective military service bill the Fish amendment postponing conscription for 60 days.

The amendment, approved by the house but not by the senate, would defer operation of the draft while voluntary enlistments were being given a 60-day trial. Then the government could pick men to bring the total of new recruits to 400,000.

Willkie, up early, issued a formal one-sentence statement at breakfast urging that the selective service program go into effect immediately. He first voiced his approval of military conscription in his acceptance address last month.

The gubernatorial vote in yesterday's balloting produced even a greater margin than did the senate race—more than 70,000 for Summer Sewall (R.) over Fulton J. Redman (D.) and close to the 70,000 asked by Republican National Chairman Joseph W. Martin as "encouragement" to national supporters of Willkie.

Republican United States Representatives James C. Oliver and Margaret C. Smith won reelection easily in the First and Second districts. Frank Fellows (R), Bangor lawyer, succeeded to Brewster's seat in the Third district, also with a wide lead.

Michigan Votes

Detroit—(P)—Light early voting in Michigan's primary election appeared today to contradict predictions of a record turnout which election officials had based on high registration figures.

In Detroit, Fred W. Cretzler, city clerk, estimated that early balloting was only about two-thirds as heavy as in 1936, the last presidential election year. Predictions of a record Detroit primary vote were based on a registration of 664,887 which gave the city 2,600 more qualified voters than in the 1938 primary, which set the previous record.

Dispute Closes Fisher Body Plant

Flint, Mich.—(P)—Fisher Body Plant No. 1 was closed today and several departments of the Buick division of General Motors suspended operations in a labor dispute.

Union officials said that as a result of the interruption to body production meet of Buick would be closed by tonight. The two companies together employ about 20,000 workers.

George C. Patterson, manager of Fisher No. 1, sent 1,200 night shift employees home as a result, he said, of fighting between members of rival unions. Company officials said difficulties developed when members of the United Automobile workers, (C.I.O.) objected to working beside non-unionists and members of the U.A.W.A. (A. F. of L.).

Hit by Windmill Blade, Falls 85 Feet to Death

Elk Mound, Wis.—(P)—Raymond Meyers, 44, was killed yesterday when he was struck by the blade of a windcharger and knocked from the top of an 85-foot tower on his farm three miles south of here.

Confessed Kidnaper Is Doomed Second Time

Jefferson City, Mo.—(P)—Oscar Ralph Ashworth was condemned again today to die in Missouri's lethal gas chamber for a confessed kidnapping that has kept him in prison "death row" for two years.

The state supreme court affirmed the death sentence given the short, sharp-eyed mechanic after he pleaded guilty Sept. 1, 1938, to abducting a 7-year-old girl at St. Joseph, Mo.

Milwaukee Man Is Facing Manslaughter Charge at Madison

Madison—(P)—J. Saxton Morgan, 31, of Milwaukee, was arrested on a manslaughter charge today in connection with the death of Lawrence Drew, 16, of Glen Oak Hills, who was killed in an automobile accident near here Sept. 2.

Morgan, who pleaded innocent to the charge, was released under $2,000 bond. He will be given a preliminary hearing Sept. 19.

KING GEORGE INSPECTS BOMB DAMAGE — Civilians surround King George (arrow) in London's East End during his three-hour inspection of areas hardest hit by German air raids. This picture was cabled from London to the United States as inhabitants of the world's largest city were preparing to go to shelters for protection against another night of air attacks.

Conferees Try to End Differences Over Draft

Loan Proposal Before Senate

Washington—(P)—A joint senate-house conference committee whose members already have voted individually 9 to 2 for immediate conscription worked today to compromise the differences of the two branches of congress of the Burke-Wadsworth compulsory military training bill.

The big differences were:

1. The house-approved provision for a 60-day delay in conscription, pending further trial of voluntary enlistments.
 2. The house amendment expanding the affected age limit from senate-approved bracket of 21 through 30 years to 21 through 44 years.
- Leaders insisted that the personal view of the conferees registered in their previous votes on the measure, would not lessen their efforts to maintain the position taken by their respective houses—a traditional requirement.

Protest Forces Jap Withdrawal

Hong Kong—(P)—One thousand Japanese troops who over-stepped the Indo-China frontier at Dong Dang have withdrawn after an emphatic French protest, reports from Hanoi said today.

The reports said the French still were firmly opposing Japanese attempts to gain a free hand in Indo-China—which would simplify their drive against the Chinese armies of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

Drop Case Against Alleged Nazi Agent

Los Angeles—(P)—Charges against Herbert Hoehne, 29, accused of being an unregistered German agent, were dismissed unexpectedly today.

Federal Judge Leon R. Yankwich dismissed the charges on motion of United States Attorney William Fleet Palmer, who only a moment before, had announced he believed he had a "complete case" against Hoehne and asked the latter if he wished to chance his plea from not guilty to guilty.

Goes to Trial

Chicago—(P)—Jack Russell went to trial in Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward's court today for the second time on a charge of kidnapping and murdering William Scott Hamilton, an Arkansas City, Kans., salesman.

Wisconsin Allotted $3,300,000 in U. S. 1942-43 Road Funds

Washington—(P)—John M. Carmody, federal works administrator, yesterday announced allocation of $134,063,000 of federal aid highway funds, including $3,316,000 to Wisconsin, for the 1942 and 1943 fiscal years.

Wisconsin was allocated $2,410,000 in regular federal aid, $422,000 in funds for secondary or feeder roads, and $484,000 for grade crossing elimination.

Lull in Nazi Raids but London has 4 Alarms

Admit British Bombs Cause Reich Losses

Berlin—(P)—German raiders, crossing paths with British attackers who bombed the outskirts of Berlin and northern industrial areas of Germany, continued "rolling reprisal" assaults on London during the night, the Nazi high command reported today.

The daily communique said war-essential targets in the British capital again were blasted by bombs of all calibers and admitted the British inflicted "more or less serious damage" on scattered apartment houses in the neighborhood of Berlin and other cities.

In addition to the inland raids, the high command reported British warships stole up to the German-held French coast, "silently fired several salvos which hit the hinterland without damage" and were repelled by Nazi naval artillery.

West Coast Raids

Supplementing the London raids, other attacks were said to have been carried out yesterday against the English west coast and the Scottish east coast.

Yesterday's air losses were listed as 44 British planes to 21 German.

Submarine Commander Lieutenant Captain Gunter Prien, who was credited with the sinking of the British battleship Royal Oak early in the war in a daring raid on Scapa Flow, was reported to have sunk 40,250 tons of British merchantmen in one recent voyage.

Threaten Strike In Radio Industry

New York—(P)—A strike of 10,500 actors, singers and announcers on sustaining radio programs appeared imminent today.

They are members of the American Federation of Radio Artists (A. F. of L.) which has called meetings here Thursday, and in Chicago, Los Angeles and San Francisco Friday, to consider a strike vote over wage demands.

The union demanded from the three major networks a pay scale approaching the basic rate for artists appearing on sponsored commercial programs. Sustaining programs are not sponsored. The networks asserted the scale is too high for unsponsored programs.

The controversy affects one-fifth of the programs of the National Broadcasting company network, Columbia and Mutual systems, but the Mutual is affected only through its affiliated stations.

Knudsen Predicts 11,000 Army, Navy Planes in 19 Months

Buffalo, N. Y.—(P)—In 19 months, the army and navy will have approximately 11,000 combat airplanes—fighters and bombers—William S. Knudsen, chairman of the national defense commission, said today.

Almost through with a nationwide tour of aircraft plants in the company of General H. H. Arnold, chief of the army air corps, Knudsen said "we know the United States is making the best airplanes," and added:

"I believe that presently we can say we are making the most airplanes."

The figure of 11,000 was based on a total production by April 1, 1942, of 33,000 planes, 14,000 destined for Great Britain and 19,000 for the armed services of the United States.

Refugees, Scottish Children Arrive

New York—(P)—The British liner Cameronia arrived from Glasgow today with 630 German-Jewish refugees and 200 killed Scottish children, brought to safety from bombed Britain.

The total passenger list numbered 930. Among the refugees were 100 children, and a group of 135 men who had been interned at a camp in Surrey.

Experts Map Changes In Excess Profits Bill

Committee Expects to Vote Tomorrow On Sending Measure to Upper House

Washington—(P)—Legislative experts took over today the complex task of putting into exact language the sweeping revisions of the house-approved excess profits tax bill ordered by the senate finance committee.

The committee itself, having passed on the measure, took a recess until Wednesday, at which time it will probably vote on the draft to be submitted to the senate.

Members disagreed as to the result of their week's effort. "The worst hodge-podge that ever was drafted," was the verdict of Senator Clark (D-Mo.). "Nobody knows what's in it."

Chairman Harrison (D-Miss.), however, called the revised measure a "great improvement" over the "hodge-podge" majority leader Barkley (D-Ky.) said he thought that "on the whole it's an improvement" and forecast senate passage by the end of this week.

Italian Prince Arrested as 'Anti-Fascist'

Rome—(P)—Prince Alessandro Torlonia, wealthy young Roman nobleman and son of the former Elsie Moore of New York, has been arrested in a roundup of Italians suspected of "anti-fascist or defeatist tendencies," friends disclosed today.

The 28-year-old prince is a son-in-law of former King Alfonso of Spain. His sister, Marina, married Frank Shields, the one-time American tennis star.

Friends said he was accused of "talking too much."

Lawyers Argue Over 3rd Term

Resolution Offered To Committee Stirs Up Debate in Group

Philadelphia—(P)—A resolution condemning a third term for President Roosevelt was submitted today to the American Bar association's resolutions committee and immediately precipitated a controversy within the committee.

Arthur W. Brouillette of San Francisco announced he favored tabling the resolution as the committee scheduled debate on the proposal for later in the day. Another consultant member, who asked that his name be withheld, said that "if you want to break up the American Bar association, just report this resolution out."

The resolution attacked the president's third-term aspirations as subversive of the principles upon which the nation was founded and endorsed a constitutional amendment to give future presidents one six-year term. It asked support for such a bill introduced in the senate by Senator Burke (D-Neb.).

Sponsors of the resolution were Edward C. Bailey of New York and H. Graham Morrison of Bristol, Tenn. If approved by the resolutions committee, it would go to the association's house of delegates, representing the organization's 160,000 members.

Says Gamblers Traveled Free

Witness Testifies Chicago Houses Paid $40,000 in 4 Years

Chicago—(P)—A bus operator, Robert E. Thibert, testified today in federal court that operators of a string of gambling houses spent $40,000 in four years to provide free bus transportation for the customers.

Buses would start at Wilson avenue and Broadway and make stops at practically every gambling spot in operation at any particular time, he said.

Thibert was a witness in the trial of William R. Johnson and eight others charged with conspiracy to evade $1,887,000 in taxes on the 1938-39 income of Johnson whom the government alleged was Chicago's gambling "overlord."

Thibert said payments to him for furnishing buses were usually made by Jack Summers, one of the defendants, in currency ranging from $5 to $20 bills but that some times doormen of the gaming joints paid on a mileage basis.

New Jersey Judge Urges U. S. Bureau to Expose Propaganda

Milwaukee—(P)—Urging establishment of a national bureau to expose propaganda, Judge Richard Harshbarger of Newark, N. J., warned the forty-seventh annual police congress here today that all haste must be made to plug the loopholes through which foreign agents can strike at America.

Berlin Reports British Convoy Is Broken Up

Berlin—(P)—A British convoy of eight ships steaming out of Dover yesterday was shelled by German coastal batteries and broken up, the high command reported tonight.

It said four returned to Dover, two turned in toward Deal, one other was damaged by shell fire and was towed to Deal and the eighth remained smoking in the channel.

FDR 'Labor Speech' Expected Tomorrow

Hyde Park, N. Y.—(P)—Stephen Early, presidential secretary, said today he expected "the president in all probability tomorrow night will deliver the labor speech of the campaign." The executive is scheduled to speak tomorrow in Washington at the convention of the International Teamsters union.

Scouts Lose Battle With R.A.F. Fliers

London—(P)—Wave after wave of German air invaders sent hurried Londoners underground four times in daylight today but up to early evening there had been no renewal of the devastating Nazi bombardment.

The fourth alarm wailed at 5:53 p. m. (10:55 a. m., C. S. T.) as the gathering dusk brought anew the threat of deadly nightlong raids which have kept this city's millions huddled in shelters each night since Saturday.

This alarm, like its predecessors of today, was comparatively brief, the all clear signal coming 31 minutes later.

The German planes over England today were believed to be scouts sent over to determine the havoc done in the preceding three nights of unprecedented attack.

British fighter planes, however, were said to have turned them back. Other Nazi planes were reported over Wales late today.

The fourth alarm came only 14 minutes after the all-clear signal had ended the third at 5:41 p. m. (10:41 a. m., C. S. T.). Those who had scurried for shelter barely had time to reach the surface before plunging below ground again.

Battle Above City

One flight of reconnaissance planes had been fought off in a quick battle high above the city during the first alarm at noon.

The second alarm was sounded at 4 p. m. (9 a. m., C. S. T.) and lasted 23 minutes.

The drone of many engines could be heard in the sky during the 25-minute alarm that came just after noon.

In a brief battle over the London area, fought at high altitudes, could not see it. British fighter planes turned away the reconnaissance and bomber planes which had occasioned the alarm. But machine gun and cannon fire were heard in central London.

Thousands of firemen, air-raid wardens, and gunners—the front fighters of this war—rushed to their posts after a weary night during which, authoritative quarters said, 150 German bombers dropped some "very heavy" demolition bombs on the center of the city.

Buildings Damaged

The German night raiders smashed down on the business district and blew the top floors off another, set great conflagrations which endangered St. Paul's cathedral and the Guildhall, London's city hall, hit two hospitals, including a maternity hospital, shook Fleet Street, London's "newspaper row" with their tremendous blasts, and battled with British fighters right over the houses of parliament—the "mother of parliaments."

In spite of the terrific blasting, millions of weary workmen, clerks and business men struggled back to their daily tasks this morning through traffic jams created by necessary rerouting of buses and taxicabs.

London's great army of workers in the heart of the city paused sometimes to look at ruined buildings, then moved doggedly on.

The Germans also battered the coast near Dover last night and early today with long-range artillery from near Cap Gris Nez, in France, killing four persons, but drawing a reply from British naval rifles mounted ashore, and British bombers.

But all this warfare was not one-way, British emphasized. Authoritative Royal Air Force quarters said their bomber squadrons again had carried out operations over Germany and attacked targets in Berlin—attacks which the German press was declaring must cease if the battle of London is to let up.

Lord Woolton, minister of food, described the amount of damage done to food supplies during the weekend German raids on London as "annoying but entirely unimportant," either in regard to Britain's or London's food supplies.

Berlin Reports British Convoy Is Broken Up

Berlin—(P)—A British convoy of eight ships steaming out of Dover yesterday was shelled by German coastal batteries and broken up, the high command reported tonight.

It said four returned to Dover, two turned in toward Deal, one other was damaged by shell fire and was towed to Deal and the eighth remained smoking in the channel.

A British battery at Dover which attempted to answer the German fire later was silenced by Nazi long-range guns, the report said.

FDR 'Labor Speech' Expected Tomorrow

Hyde Park, N. Y.—(P)—Stephen Early, presidential secretary, said today he expected "the president in all probability tomorrow night will deliver the labor speech of the campaign." The executive is scheduled to speak tomorrow in Washington at the convention of the International Teamsters union.

Democrats in Harmony as Ballot Nears

Broughton Approval Of McGovern Marks Unity on Surface

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Madison—After almost two years of extremely bitter rivalry, the New Deal Democrats of Wisconsin have attained a degree of surface harmony at least which puts them behind a single slate of state office candidates in next Tuesday's primary election.

Endorsement by Charles E. Broughton, Democratic national committeeman for Wisconsin, of the slate of candidates picked and endorsed by the Democratic Party Organization of Wisconsin marks the capitulation, observers believe, of the Broughton New Dealers to the insurgent Democratic movement founded and headed by Gustave J. Keller of Appleton, Democratic chairman in Outagamie county.

Although he delayed until 10 days before the primary election, Broughton has now formally put his blessing on the candidacy of Francis E. McGovern for governor, and Keller for attorney general, and McGovern, together with Chairman Edward Curry of Milwaukee county, have been the leading spirits in the Democratic Party Organization of Wisconsin, formed for the express purpose of rejuvenating the Wisconsin Democracy.

Break for McGovern
Observers point out that Broughton's influence in the Democratic party, through his long leadership as national committeeman and control over a large share of federal patronage in the state, probably assures the nomination of McGovern by the Democrats over William Callahan, Gerhard Hagedorn, and Raymond Cannon. Some Democrats have pointed out also that Broughton had no other course because of his known opposition to the other three candidates. Endorsement of Keller, it is plain, was also inevitable, since Keller is unopposed for the nomination.

Principal significance in Broughton's action lies in the fact that it gives the Keller-McGovern forces a greater chance to control the state party machine after the primary. The nominees of the party choose the state central committee and the state chairman. Thus the ouster of Chairman William D. Carroll, presently a candidate for the Democratic senatorial nomination, appears certain. Both Keller and Broughton have assailed his leadership.

Democrats remain silent, however, on one of the most obvious shortcomings of their campaign, the absence of a New Deal Democratic candidate for U. S. senator.

Broughton, when asked for a statement on his preference for senator, declined comment. Keller, head of the D.D.W., has also refrained from discussing the problem, although independent observers have concluded that both leaders are tacitly supporting the Progressive candidacy of Senator Robert M. La Follette.

The Keller group did not attempt to put a senatorial candidate in the field, and Broughton's efforts to get U. S. Ambassador John Cudahy to run—efforts which failed upon Cudahy's flat declaration—marked the extent of his attempt to give the New Dealers a Democratic candidate in Wisconsin.

New State Office Has Cost Information at Fingertips

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Beginning soon, any person in Wisconsin who wants to know how much the department of agriculture spends each month for postage stamps, how much highway commission officials collect in miles allowances, or the average cost of meals and lodgings for beverage tax division field men, can get the answers promptly and accurately by a call to a new office established in the secretary of state's department.

According to the claims of the sponsors of the new central state government accounting system, new methods and machinery installed will make available the most complete financial reporting service ever seen in the state capital.

Governor Heil claims credit for the idea. In a recent publicity release from his office, the governor said that he had induced 10 of his friends who head business corporations to lend their controllers to make a study of state accounting.

The team of business accounting experts looked over the state's method of keeping books and found it wanting. They recommended improvements. Under the old system the most fundamental requirement, ability to render frequent and true statements of the state's financial condition, was not being fulfilled, they found.

Start New System
So the governor and the secretary of state ordered new machinery, put on some extra accountants and started a new system. Now all ready to take over the state's ledgers, the new office is under the wing of Secretary of State Fred R. Zimmerman, state auditor.

War Situation Today

Historic London Buildings are Menaced During Nazi Attacks

High-flying German raiders buzzed out of sight above London today, springing a series of four daylight alarms after their third straight dusk-to-dawn assault had set great fires in the vicinity of historic St. Paul's cathedral and in "the city"—the capital's Wall Street.

R. A. F. pursuit planes fought off one Nazi reconnaissance squadron in a swift, fire-spitting clash high above Buckingham palace at lunchtime, but the Germans came back again and again.

No bombs fell in the London area, and apparently the Nazi raiders were merely checking up on the devastating effects of their nine-hour and two-minute attack during the night.

Roaring salvos of bombs, weighing from 800 to 1,000 pounds each, crashed near the Bank of England, the Guildhall (city hall) of London's lord mayor, the general post office, London bridge, Fleet street, and the great Inns of Court where English barristers for centuries have lived "in chambers."

The 20-year-old St. Paul's cathedral, with its great dome red-lit from the glare of flames in nearby warehouses, was saved by the wind blowing in the opposite direction. Hundreds of firemen fought the warehouse blazes with the aid of water towers for eight hours without a break.

R. A. F. officers estimated about 150 German bombers, shuttling in night-long relays across the channel, took part in the bombardment.

Say Raids 'Just Begun'
"The enemy now has thrown off all pretense of confining himself to military targets," an official British communique declared.

Berlin retorted that the full-scale aerial siege of Britain has "just begun" and said "ever more planes for London" was the order issued to the Nazi Luftwaffe.

German daylight raiders returned to the attack at noon, interrupting the lunch hour of London's weary millions with a 25-minute alarm begun 12:54 (5:54 a. m., C. S. T.) to 1:19 p. m.

In the night attack, 120 persons were reported buried in the wreckage of 20 houses in a single district. By dawn, rescue crews digging into the rubble had found only 20 alive.

British R. A. F. bombers made a 43-minute raid on Berlin before dawn, but the Germans asserted that only scattered apartment houses were damaged in the Nazi capitals northern outskirts. The Wesermuende industrial area in northern Germany also was bombed.

Hitler's high command acknowledged a British naval attack on the German-held French coast, in which, it said, "some light enemy vessels aimlessly fired several salvos which hit the hinterland without damage."

"The enemy was driven away by the fire of our naval artillery," the high command said.

Nazi pilots returning from the night raids said direct bomb-hits were scored on London's Great East Indian and royal Victoria docks along the Thames, further disrupting the capital's vital water-borne food supplies.

The newspaper Berliner Zeitung asserted London will share the fate of Warsaw and Rotterdam—the Polish and Dutch capitals which are laid virtually in ruins—unless Prime Minister Winston Churchill stops sending "his pirates over Germany nightly."

The British admiralty reported a loss of 84,575 tons of British and neutral merchant shipping in the week ended Sept. 1, bringing the total for the first year of the war to 2,771,333 tons. German-Italian shipping losses over the same period were listed as 1,236,000 tons.

Casualties in last night's violent attack were not immediately announced, but it was believed they would approach those of the preceding two nights, when 306 and 288 respectively were killed and a total of 2,700 badly wounded.

This would bring the 3-day toll to about 900 dead and 4,000 seriously injured.

Koehler Would Pay For Social Security Out of Tax Receipts
Waukesha—(P)—Dr. John P. Koehler, candidate for the Republican nomination for United States senator, asserted yesterday that "it would be more sensible to pay social security claims, as we go, out of current tax receipts."

"This would maintain a balance between social security claims and taxes," Koehler said. "I am opposed to the government taxing the people more than is necessary."

Federal Reserve Board Attacked by Chilsen
Sheboygan—(P)—Walter E. Chilsen of Merrill, candidate for the Republican United States senatorial nomination, said last night that the "power to regulate the monetary system of the United States must be returned to congress or the stagnation of business will continue."

"When the circulation of currency is stopped or impeded, it must naturally follow that business bears the brunt of such a policy," he said.

The eternal truth destroys what mortals seem to have learned from error, and man's real existence as a child of God comes to light."

Stafford Says Heil Planning Sales Tax

Green Bay—(P)—Governor Heil will propose a broad sales tax if he is re-elected, Harold E. Stafford, candidate for the Progressive nomination for governor, said in a radio address last night.

"No new taxes on utilities or corporate wealth or great estates will be suggested by Julius," Stafford added. "He will not even propose restoration of the taxes he wiped out for the special interests. His exit to Wisconsin's 3,000,000 people will be pay through sales taxes, or else."

Obvious Hitler Out to Smash London Morale

English Appear to be Withstanding Pressure of Nightly Bombing Attacks

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

New York—(P)—It is now clear that the Hitlerian strategy of the moment is to try to smash British morale by pouring terror over London.

Last night the Nazi raiders carried death and destruction to the heart of the metropolis. They spewed bombs over residential areas and about such world-famous buildings as the Guild hall and old St. Paul, which was built on the ruins of the eleventh-century cathedral that was destroyed in the great fire of 1666.

A British communique charges that "the enemy has now thrown off all pretense of confining himself to military targets." Be that as may be, there is no question that the battle centers in London will depend in no small degree on how well the stout-hearted cockney and his broad-beamed wife, whom he affectionately calls his "Old Dutch," can stand the hell to which they are being subjected.

Last night the enemy struck close to the vitals of cockneydom, for they menaced the ancient church of St. Mary-Le-Bow. All who are born within the sound of Bow bells can call themselves true cockneys.

Accuses Gov Heil of 'Complete Somersault'
Milwaukee—(P)—State Senator Philip E. Nelson said in a campaign speech last night that "Heil and his cohorts have performed a complete somersault since their wailing and promises of the 1938 campaign."

"Heil and his paid spell-binders in the campaign of 1938 condemned the previous administration for using $300,000 to a million dollars of the gasoline tax fund for other purposes than those for which they were levied."

"Eighty per cent of Wisconsin's motorists have incomes of less than $100 per month. This group is keeping the wheels of government moving in Wisconsin today. This is not taxation based on the ability to pay. It is taxation imposed for the purpose of enabling the administration to pay off big fellows."

"Wisconsin's highway program has been disrupted and curtailed. Only 62 miles of hard-surfaced roads have been constructed in 1940."

Callahan in Favor of State Buying Board

Madison—(P)—A central board of purchasing was proposed for the state by William R. Callahan, candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, in a radio address here today.

"There is no doubt that immense savings could be made by having a central board of purchases with the working governor as the head, and various department heads as members," he said.

"This plan has worked out in Milwaukee and other large cities and would work out in the state. Extravagance in local and state government must be stopped."

Callahan declared that he was opposed to diversion of the highway fund, stating:

"Not only is it downright deceit to promise the taxpayers that their money will be spent for roads, but it is imposing a sales tax upon one class of our people, often least able to pay, and diverting the money to others who have not in any way contributed to the fund."

Committee Meets

The street and bridge committee of the city council met this morning at city hall. The recreation committee will meet tonight.

stick by which we may measure the position is the fact that a fierce British anti-aircraft barrage this morning threw back the German raiders. And that during the night the Royal Air Force again plastered Berlin, among other German objectives.

A reader has asked me to reconcile recent bombing developments with the prediction by expert observers generally that the bad weather which will arrive shortly may be expected to give England a respite. Special reference is made to a British official admission that the German raiders over London Sunday night benefited by the heavy clouds and rain.

That is a question well worth consideration in view of the important part the atmospheric conditions undoubtedly will play. There is no inconsistency involved, if you know your English weather. First off, so far as London itself is concerned, there rarely will be a time, even in the worst weather, when some bombers won't be able to get over the capital by instrument-flying and dump their cargoes of bombs blindly, to fall wildly into the metropolis. It would be difficult to miss a target the size of the world's greatest city.

Lessons Effectiveness
Such bombing would be wholly indiscriminate. It would do damage, to be sure, and it might kill a lot of people, but the chances of military objectives being destroyed would be small. In short, it would contribute little to victory in the battle of Britain—unless it served to crack civilian morale.

As for the rest of England, the fall and winter weather should provide real relief. You must know that Britain is a law unto itself when it comes to dirty weather. Day after day the land will be shrouded with fogs and mists which start from the ground and reach up, thereby making an impenetrable blanket. You never saw a fog unless you experienced the English variety.

I've seen 'em so bad for days on end that when you opened an outside door a solid white wall would roll into the house, thick enough to cut with a cheese knife. Cross my heart, but many a time I've seen the fog so terrible in London that when I crossed the narrow street from my front door to a letter box I couldn't find my way back without people calling out to guide me. The fogs of London and elsewhere often are so thick that life in general just sits down on the curbs and waits with chin in hand, and the only people who can find their way out are blind folk who don't have to depend on sight.

Well, the best thing a bomber can do under such circumstances is to get above the fog, steer by instrument until he is over some large target like a city and then shoot blindly. True, there will be times when the Nazi raiders will find more favorable conditions, but those may easily be the great exception to the whole, England expects to get real relief from the fogs and mists which last from about October to March, inclusive. Destruction of industries and other military objectives should fall off heavily.

Weather Conundrum
By the way, here's a weather conundrum for you: Why is it that the British authorities have ever since the beginning of the war forbidden publication of weather forecasts in England? Give up?

It's because the weather travels from west to east—from England onto the continent—and the weather which England gets today arrives in Germany about 24 hours late. Thus the English aviator knows by today's weather at home what sort he will encounter in Germany tomorrow, but that scheme doesn't work both ways to help the Nazi. So weather reports are forbidden, to keep the information from the enemy.

It is to prevent the British from getting a respite, and to save himself from being strangled by the blockade, that Herr Hitler is straining for a quick decision this month. Should the war go into the winter, England probably not only could repair damage done by the present aerial onslaught, but would be able to pile up great reserves from abroad, mainly from the United States.

That might enable the British to assume the offensive which they plan for next year.

"SCHOOL DAYS, SCHOOL DAYS" — Public school pupils were a bit excited at breakfast yesterday morning as they looked ahead to the first day of classes. School buildings, silent except for occasional painters and workmen during the summer, resounded again to the exclamations of youth and the tramp of many feet.

Democrats in Harmony as Ballot Nears

Broughton Approval Of McGovern Marks Unity on Surface

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—After almost two years of extremely bitter rivalry, the New Deal Democrats of Wisconsin have attained a degree of surface harmony at least which puts them behind a single slate of state office candidates in next Tuesday's primary election.

Endorsement by Charles E. Broughton, Democratic national committeeman for Wisconsin, of the slate of candidates picked and endorsed by the Democratic Party Organization of Wisconsin marks the capitulation, observers believe, of the insurgent Democratic movement founded and headed by Gustave J. Keller of Appleton, Democratic chairman in Outagamie county.

Although he delayed until 10 days before the primary election, Broughton has now formally put his blessing on the candidacy of Francis E. McGovern for governor and Keller for attorney general. Keller and McGovern, together with Chairman Edward Curry of Milwaukee county, have been the leading spirits in the Democratic Party Organization of Wisconsin, formed for the express purpose of rejuvenating the Wisconsin Democracy.

Break for McGovern
Observers point out that Broughton's influence in the Democratic party, through his long leadership as national committeeman and controller over a large share of federal patronage in the state, probably assures the nomination of McGovern by the Democrats over William Callahan, Gerhard Hagedorn, and Raymond Cannon. Some Democrats have pointed out also that Broughton had no other course because of his known opposition to the other three candidates. Endorsement of Keller, it is plain, was also inevitable, since Keller is unopposed for the nomination.

Principal significance in Broughton's action lies in the fact that it gives the Keller-McGovern forces a greater chance to control the state party machine after the primary. The nominees of the party choose the state central committee and the state chairman. Thus the ouster of Chairman William D. Carroll, presently a candidate for the Democratic senatorial nomination, appears certain. Both Keller and Broughton have assailed his leadership. Democrats remain silent, however, on one of the most obvious shortcomings of their campaign, the absence of a New Deal Democratic candidate for U. S. senator.

Broughton, when asked for a statement on his preference for senator, declined comment. Keller, head of the DPM, has also refrained from discussing the problem, although independent observers have concluded that both leaders are tacitly supporting the Progressive candidacy of Senator Robert M. LaFollette.

The Keller group did not attempt to put a senatorial candidate in the field, and Broughton's efforts to get U. S. Ambassador John Cudahy to run—efforts which failed upon Cudahy's flat declaration—marked the extent of his attempt to give the New Dealers a Democratic candidate in Wisconsin.

New State Office Has Cost Information at Fingertips

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Beginning soon, any person in Wisconsin who wants to know how much the department of agriculture spends each month for postage stamps, how much highway commission officials collect in mileage allowances, or the average cost of meals and lodging for beverage tax division field men, can get the answers promptly and accurately by a call to a new office established in the secretary of state's department.

According to the claims of the sponsors of the new central state government accounting system, new methods and machinery installed will make available the most complete financial reporting service ever seen in the state capital.

Governor Heil claims credit for the idea. In a recent publicity release from his office, the governor said that he had induced 10 of his friends who head business corporations to lend their comptrollers to make a study of state accounting. The team of business accounting experts looked over the state's method of keeping books and found it wanting. They recommended improvements. Under the old system the most fundamental requirement, ability to render frequent and true statements of the state's finan-

War Situation Today Historic London Buildings are Menaced During Nazi Attacks

High-flying German raiders buzzed over the city of London today, springing a series of four daylight alarms after their third straight dusk-to-dawn assault had set great fires in the vicinity of historic St. Paul's cathedral and in "the city"—the capital's Wall street.

R. A. F. pursuit planes fought off one Nazi reconnaissance squadron in a swift, fire-spitting clash high above Buckingham palace at lunchtime, but the Germans came back again and again.

No bombs fell in the London area, and apparently the Nazi airmen were merely checking up on the devastating effects of their nine-hour and two-minute attack during the night.

Roaring salvos of bombs, weighing from 800 to 1,000 pounds each, crashed near the Bank of England, the Guildhall (city hall) of London, the Guildhall, the general post office, London bridge, Fleet street, and the great Inns of Court where English barristers for centuries have lived "in chambers."

The 20-year-old St. Paul's cathedral, with its great dome red-lit from the glare of flames in nearby warehouses, was saved by the wind blowing in the opposite direction.

Hundreds of firemen fought the warehouse blazes with the aid of water towers for eight hours without a break.

R. A. F. officers estimated about 150 German bombers, shuttling in night-long relays across the channel, took part in the bombardment.

Say Raids "Just Begun"
"The enemy now has thrown off all pretense of confining himself to military targets," an official British communique declared.

Berlin reported that the full-blast aerial siege of Britain has "just begun" and said "ever more planes for London" was the order issued to the Nazi Luftwaffe.

German daylight raiders returned to the attack at noon, interrupting the lunch hour of London's workers with a 25-minute alarm begun 12:54 (5:54 a. m., C. S. T.) to 1:19 p. m.

In the night attack, 120 persons were reported buried in the wreckage of 20 houses in a single district. By dawn, rescue crews digging into the rubble had found only 20 alive.

British R. A. F. bombers made a 43-minute raid on Berlin before dawn, but the Germans asserted that only scattered apartment houses were damaged in the Nazi capitals northern outskirts. The Wesermünde industrial area in northern Germany also was bombed.

Hitler's high command acknowledged a British naval attack on the German-held French coast, in which, it said, "some light enemy vessels aimlessly fired several salvos which hit the hinterland without damage."

"The enemy was driven away by the fire of our naval artillery," the high command said.

Nazi pilots returning from the night raids said direct bomb-hits were scored on London's great East Indian and royal Victoria docks along the Thames, further disrupting the capital's vital water-borne food supplies.

The newspaper Berliner Zeitung asserted London will share the fate of Warsaw and Rotterdam — the Polish and Dutch capitals which are laid virtually in ruins—unless Prime Minister Winston Churchill stops sending "his pirates over Germany nightly."

The British admiralty reported a loss of 84,575 tons of British and neutral merchant shipping in the week ended Sept. 1, bringing the total for the first year of the war to 2,771,333 tons. German-Italian shipping losses over the same period were listed as 1,238,000 tons.

Casualties in last night's violent attack were not immediately announced, but it was believed they would approach those of the preceding two nights, when 306 and 286 respectively were killed and a total of 2,700 badly wounded.

This would bring the 3-day toll to about 900 dead and 4,000 seriously injured.

Koehler Would Pay For Social Security Out of Tax Receipts

Waukesha—(P)—Dr. John P. Koehler, candidate for the Republican nomination for United States senator, asserted yesterday that "it would be more sensible to pay social security claims, as we go, out of current tax receipts."

"This would maintain a balance between social security claims and taxes," Koehler said. "I am opposed to the government taxing the people more than is necessary."

Federal Reserve Board Attacked by Chilsen

Sheboygan—(P)—Walter E. Chilsen of Merrill, candidate for the Republican United States senatorial nomination, said last night that the "power to regulate the monetary system of the United States must be returned to congress and the stagnation of business will continue."

"When the circulation of currency is stopped or impeded, it must naturally follow that business bears the brunt of such a policy," he said.

"By returning to congress from the federal reserve board the power to regulate our currency, we can hope for a new, sound and stable money system to aid in the recovery of business and rehabilitation of all our citizens."

Stafford Says Heil Planning Sales Tax

Green Bay—(P)—Governor Heil will propose a broad sales tax if he is re-elected, Harold E. Stafford, candidate for the Progressive nomination for governor, said in a radio address last night.

"No new taxes on utilities or corporate wealth or great estates will be suggested by Julius," Stafford added. "He will not even propose restoration of the taxes he wiped out for the special interests. His edict to Wisconsin's 3,000,000 people will be 'pay through sales taxes, or else.'"

Callahan in Favor of State Buying Board

Madison—(P)—A central board of purchasing was proposed for the state by William R. Callahan, candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, in a radio address here today.

"There is no doubt that immense savings could be made by having a central board of purchases with the working governor as the head, and various department heads as members," he said.

"This plan has worked out in Milwaukee and other large cities and would work out in the state. Extravagance in local and state government must be stopped."

Callahan declared that he was opposed to diversion of the highway fund, stating:

"Not only is it downright deceit to promise the taxpayers that their money will be spent for roads, but it is imposing a sales tax upon one class of our people, often least able to pay, and diverts the money to others who have not in any way contributed to the fund."

Committee Meets
The street and bridge committee of the city council met this morning at city hall. The recreation committee will meet tonight.

Obvious Hitler Out to Smash London Morale

English Appear to be Withstanding Pressure of Nightly Bombing Attacks

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

New York—(P)—It is now clear that the Hitlerian strategy of the moment is to try to smash British morale by pouring terror over London.

Last night the Nazi raiders carried death and destruction to the heart of the metropolis. They spewed bombs over residential areas and about such world-famous buildings as the guild hall and old St. Paul, which was built on the ruins of the eleventh-century cathedral that was destroyed in the great fire of 1666.

A British communique charges that "the enemy has now thrown off all pretense of confining himself to military targets." Be that as may be, there is no question that the battle centers in London.

The trend of the conflict will depend in no small degree on how well the stout-hearted cockney and his broad-beamed wife, whom he affectionately calls his "Old Dutch," can stand the hell to which they are being subjected. Last night the enemy struck close to the vitals of cockneydom, for they menaced the ancient church of St. Mary-Le-Bow. All who are born within the sound of Bow bells can call themselves true cockneys.

Mackenzie
This morning finds morale apparently intact. I think the yard-

As for the rest of England, the fall and winter weather should provide real relief. You must know that Britain is a law unto itself when it comes to dirty weather. Day after day the land will be shrouded with fogs and mists which start from the ground and reach up, thereby making an impenetrable blanket. You never saw a fog unless you experienced the English variety.

I've seen 'em so bad for days on end that when you opened an outside door a solid white wall would roll into the house, thick enough to cut with a cheese knife. Cross my heart, but many a time I've seen the fog so terrible in London that when I crossed the narrow street from my front door to a letter box I couldn't find my way back without people calling out to guide me. The fogs of London and elsewhere often are so thick that life in general just sits down on the curbs and waits with chin in hand, and the only people who can find their way out are blind folk who don't have to depend on sight.

Well, the best thing a bomber can do under such circumstances is to get above the fog, steer by instrument until he is over some large target like a city and then shoot blindly. True, there will be times when the Nazi airmen will find more favorable conditions, but those may easily be the great exception. On the whole, England expects to get real relief from the fogs and mists which last from about October to March, inclusive. Destruction of industries and other military objectives should fall off heavily.

Weather Conundrum
By the way, here's a weather conundrum for you. Why is it that the British authorities have ever since the beginning of the war foretold in England? Give up?

It's because the weather travels from west to east—from England onto the continent—and the weather which England gets today arrives in Germany about 24 hours late. Thus the English aviator knows by today's weather at home what sort he will encounter in Germany tomorrow, but that scheme doesn't work both ways to help the Nazi. So weather reports are forbidden, to keep the information from the enemy.

It is to prevent the British from getting a respite, and to save himself from being strangled by the blockade, that Herr Hitler is straining for a quick decision this month. Should the war go into the winter, England probably not only could repair damage done by the present aerial onslaught, but would be able to pile up great reserves from abroad, mainly from the United States.

That might enable the British to assume the offensive which they plan for next year.

Accuses Gov Heil of 'Complete Somersault'

Madison—(P)—The State Senator Philip E. Nelson said in a campaign speech last night that "Heil and his cohorts have performed a complete somersault since their waiting and promises of the 1938 campaign."

"Heil and his paid spell-binders in the campaign of 1938 condemned the previous administration for using $500,000 to a million dollars of the gasoline tax fund for other purposes than those for which they were levied."

"Eighty per cent of Wisconsin's motorists have incomes of less than $100 per month. This group is keeping the wheels of government moving in Wisconsin today. This is not taxation based on the ability to pay. It is taxation imposed for the purpose of enabling the administration cut taxes on big fellows."

"Wisconsin's highway program has been disrupted and curtailed. Only 62 miles of hard-surfaced roads have been constructed in 1940."

Callahan in Favor of State Buying Board

Madison—(P)—A central board of purchasing was proposed for the state by William R. Callahan, candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, in a radio address here today.

State GOP Airs Money Affairs

Reports Collections Of $92,000 and Total Expenses of $23,000

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—The Republican party of Wisconsin opened up its financial affairs to the public this week as it filed a preliminary statement of receipts and disbursements with Fred R. Zimmerman, secretary of state, as required by law.

In the pre-primary financial statement required by the state corrupt practices law, the Republican party of Wisconsin reported total collections of $92,110, total expenses to date paid of $23,000 and about $2,000 currently owing.

The financial statement showed more than a dozen contributions of $1,000 each from prominent Wisconsin citizens, several of $2,000, and one of $3,000.

It also listed receipts of $33,926 from the Republican national committee. The financial statement was filed by Mrs. G. G. Towne, Waukesha, secretary of the state committee.

The preliminary report listed more than 600 separate contributions, ranging from $1 to $3,000. Most of them were in the $25 to $50 bracket, but there were many one dollar gifts.

The report revealed that before this year the state committee had become indebted. One item of expenditure told of the repayment of $7,500 on a note held by J. P. E. Wood of Janesville, former Republican national committeeman supplanted this year by Ted Bacon of Milwaukee.

State headquarters apparently intends to aid each county Republican group with contributions. Average aid to the counties listed was $1,000. It was not made clear, however, whether more will be sent later. Among the county party leaders listed as receiving their aid already were C. L. Kolb of Outagamie county, Peter Portman of Marathon county and John Moore of Winnebago.

The report also made public for the first time the compensation of Dr. F. L. Gullickson, state party chairman. According to the official statement filed in the capitol yesterday, Dr. Gullickson gets $125 a week in addition to expenses. Salaries and expenses of other members of the enlarged headquarters staff were also reported.

Accuses Republicans Of Planning Deficit

Madison—(P)—Charles E. Kading, candidate for the Progressive nomination for attorney general, accused the state Republican administration last night of "deliberately bringing about a $170,000,000 state deficit."

"Their plan is to put the state in such a hole that they will be able to put over a general sales tax in the next session," he asserted.

"SCHOOL DAYS, SCHOOL DAYS" — Public school pupils were a bit excited at breakfast yesterday morning as they looked ahead to the first day of classes. School buildings, silent except for occasional painters and workmen during the summer, resounded again to the exclamations of youth and the tramp of many feet.

Council May Act This Week On New Pool

Specifications Here; State Approval Must Precede Final Steps

Specifications for Appleton's new Hunter swimming pool arrived this morning and with them the possibility that final council action may be taken this week.

Mayor John Goodland, Jr., today was expecting word from Paul Schroeder, Watertown, engineer-representative of Hunter Swimming Pools, Inc., who has been conferring with officials of the state department of health on plans for the new pool.

Schroeder presented the plans to the state department yesterday and, the mayor said, could probably submit the specifications to Madison authorities today.

After state approval has been obtained, the way will be open for prompt action by the city council, the mayor pointed out. A special meeting will be called, perhaps this week, at which the signal will be given the "go ahead" signal and the city clerk authorized to advertise for bids.

It is estimated that the circular pool, a patented design, will cost in the neighborhood of $48,000.

The board of public works yesterday afternoon went over the plans with Lloyd Schindler, city engineer. The board was scheduled to meet again this afternoon to examine specifications.

Cool Weather Hits Appleton

Generally Fair Is Predicted Tomorrow; Coolness to Continue

Pedestrians sought the sunny side of the street this morning as the first pronounced cool wave of the season brought temperatures to near-freezing levels in Wisconsin and other middle western states. Generally fair weather is predicted for tonight and tomorrow in the Milwaukee weather bureau forecast.

Continued cool weather is expected with scattered light frost on the lowlands tonight. A chill air mass from Canada caused sub-freezing weather in three states and lowered temperatures to 15 to 18 degrees below normal in other parts of the central region.

The coolness extended from the Rocky mountains to the Appalachians and from the Canadian border to Oklahoma and the lower Ohio valley. The lowest temperature reported was 28 degrees in Garrison, N. D.

The mercury was in the upper 30's or the lower 40's throughout most of Minnesota, South Dakota, Wisconsin, Iowa and Nebraska, the United States weather bureau said.

Highest and lowest temperatures recorded in Appleton during the 24-hour period ending at 9 o'clock this morning were 68 degrees at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and 42 degrees at 6 o'clock this morning, according to Wisconsin Michigan Power company charts. Precipitation for the period was .11 inch. The thermometer atop the Post-Crescent building stood at 54 degrees at noon today.

The Weather

Forecast for Wisconsin: Generally fair tonight and Wednesday; continued cool, scattered light frost in the lowlands tonight. General Weather Conditions:

Showers and scattered thunderstorms occurred since Monday morning over the central plains states, the Lake region and sections of the northeastern states. Marquette, Mich., reported 1.03 inches of rain for the last 24-hour period. Fair weather prevailed this morning over all the country except the eastern Lake region and the northeastern states.

Temperatures have fallen sharply in the last 24 hours over the northern plains states, the upper Lakes region and the upper Mississippi valley. Light to heavy frost was quite general over North Dakota this morning. However, warmer weather prevailed in the southern states, with many stations in that section reporting maxima above 90 degrees yesterday.

Generally fair weather and continued cool is expected in this section for the next 24 hours.

McGovern Talks For Third Term For Roosevelt

Candidate for Governor Says President Has Helped Working Class

About 100 Outagamie county Democrats gathered at a "McGovern for Governor" dinner at the Hotel Appleton last night. Francis McGovern, former Appleton school teacher and also a former governor of Wisconsin, was the principal speaker.

Gustave J. Keller, candidate for attorney general and county Democratic chairman, presided at the dinner and introduced a number of Democratic candidates for county offices. They included Theodore H. Loose and Frank Van Den Hoogen, candidates for sheriff; John Timmers, candidate for treasurer; Wilbert L. Brick, candidate for register of deeds; Ledgard T. Peavel, candidate for coroner; Louis Bonini, candidate for the assembly from the First district; Leo Schmalz, candidate for the assembly from the Second district; and Robert M. Connelly, candidate for surveyor. Keller also introduced John Lawrie, Red Granite, candidate for state treasurer, who gave a short talk.

McGovern recalled the days when he was principal of the Ryan High school in Appleton.

Discussing political issues, he said the biggest question in this country was the last 25 years was distribution of wealth. He declared that during the last Republican administration 2 per cent of the people took $4 out of every $5 earned, leaving but $1 of each $5 to be divided among the remaining 98 per cent of the people.

Buying Power It wasn't overproduction, but the loss of buying power by the 98 per cent of the people that caused the depression, the candidate said. Roosevelt, McGovern said, took the wreck of the economic system that was handed him when he took office and the same day gave orders that checked the decline in business.

"He had two objectives," McGovern went on. "One was recovery and the other was to reform the weaknesses in the system which caused the depression."

"Every piece of legislation brought about by Roosevelt was designed to help the working man," McGovern said. "He didn't offer a cure-all but used a trial-and-error method a la by all big businesses."

He condemned holding companies and said that the profit should be taken out of hoarded wealth through taxation.

OVER 50 YEARS OF FAITHFUL SERVICE

Still Chance For Rail-Truck Service Scheme

Commission Declares Denial of Permit Doesn't Kill Proposals

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—The proposal of the Soo line to institute supplementary motor hauls between Neenah and Fond du Lac may be reopened, it was indicated here today, as public service commission authorities explained that denial of the first application last week does not directly affect the issue of railroad-truck service.

The commission last week denied the application of Harry Long, Appleton trucker, to engage in truck hauling for the railway when it held that the proposed operations would be those of a contract carrier rather than a common carrier. Long originally applied in the alternative, but withdrew his application as a contract carrier after a hearing had been held. The commission revised its precedents when it held that he would be a contract carrier if the Soo line arrangement were completed.

Can Begin New Action However, it was pointed out that Long can start a new proceeding under the contract carrier law and get the requisite state approval in that way.

Moreover, the final commission order of last week points the way toward an application for the establishment of supplementary truck line service by the railroad itself.

Several months ago the commission aroused wide interest in Wisconsin transportation circles by granting authority to the Green Bay and Western railroad to improve its service along existing lines in Door county by providing truck service.

The order of the state commission was appealed to the Dane county circuit court by trucking interests, but a decision has not yet been written.

High School Opens Year With A Record Enrolment of 1,402

The largest student body in the history of Appleton High school, 1,402, was adjusting itself to classroom work today and looking ahead to the activities that give school life its interesting variety.

The number compares with 1,372 the same time a year ago, indicating an increase of 30, according to Miss Margaret Thompson, attendance secretary.

Of the 1940-41 student body at the school, nine are post-graduates, 452 seniors, 443 juniors, and 498 sophomores. This year's senior class probably will be the largest to be graduated from the school.

There are 712 girls at Appleton High school, compared with 690 boys.

The division of girls and boys by classes is as follows: Seniors, 218 boys, 234 girls; juniors, 217 boys, 226 girls; sophomores, 252 boys, 246 girls.

The election of representatives to the student council was scheduled for today. It is the duty of the councilors to represent home rooms at meetings of the council and to assist in the collection of the activity fee. Students who belong to the activity fund may attend lycueums and athletic events and receive their weekly newspaper and year-book without further cost.

The guidance program also was launched today with distribution of the 1940 edition of the student handbook.

Willkie Against Delaying Draft For Sixty Days

disclosed that one of the speeches would be devoted to the third term issue and that at Coffeyville, Kans., next Monday he would speak on "the difference between my philosophy of free enterprise and that of the New Deal."

Willkie had a luncheon appointment for tomorrow with Frank Gannett, Rochester, N. Y., publisher who unsuccessfully opposed him for the presidential nomination.

The nominee expects to see Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon, the vice presidential candidate, before his special train leaves for Chicago Thursday night.

Ed Willkie, the nominee's brother, arrived from Chicago yesterday to accompany him on the speaking tour to the west coast. John Hollister, former Ohio representative, was added to the train staff as a liaison man with the Republican national committee.

Most of Willkie's talks during the 7,200-mile journey will be extemporaneous. He plans to have two complete manuscripts for only two or three arrangements for broadcasting the speeches have not been completed, but the nominee indicated that few would be sent over nationwide networks.

Willkie told reporters that his private conference yesterday with Henry Ford was "very pleasant." The automobile manufacturer has taken no public stand in the presidential campaign, but a policeman attached to Willkie's staff said that he wore a Willkie campaign button.

Besides completing arrangements for his western tour, Willkie has been working on campaign plans for October. He held a long conference yesterday with Samuel F. Pryor, Jr., his eastern manager, who will help him decide whether to go first into New England or to Ohio and Michigan early in October.

Both men expressed satisfaction with the progress of the campaign. "We have checked 25 states in the last couple of days," Willkie said, "and we don't know where there is any let down."

Won't Halt Fight

Des Moines, Iowa.—(AP)—Congressman Hamilton Fish, Jr., (R-N. Y.) declared today that Wendell Willkie's opposition to his amendment postponing conscription for 60 days would "make me fight all the harder" for retention of the provision in the selective military service bill.

Fish, here, to address the Iowa State Bankers convention, criticized the Republican presidential nominee who at Rushville, Ind., said he hoped that house and senate conferees would eliminate the Fish amendment.

"It is unfortunate that he (Willkie) should have given out such a statement when he unquestionably hasn't read my amendment and has fallen for the propaganda of the interventionists and the eastern press and columnists that it would delay the operation of the draft machinery and the induction of draftees," Fish said.

"Such statements are deliberate and malicious lies as it would not delay the draft machinery one hour."

The ranking Republican on the house foreign relations committee said that Congressman Wadsworth, (R-N. Y.) one of the draft bill authors, had told him that it would be impossible to induce any draftees before Nov. 10 and that army officials had advised him similarly.

LUMBAGO

Lumbago and lower back pains have been caused by almost everything from weak kidneys to acids in the blood according to various authorities.

However, in our years of practicing Chiropractic we have never found lumbago or lower back pains that would not show a decided improvement to spinal adjustment even in cases where other pathology made complete recovery impossible. When delicate nerves of the lumbar region are interfered with in their function of transmitting energy from the brain to the lower extremities, trouble is bound to assert itself sooner or later. The sufferer rarely cares whose idea is correct, as to what is the cause. He is always interested in getting well and forgetting about the pain. The fact that Chiropractic is recommended yearly by thousands as a specific for the correction of lumbago and lower back pains is the best laboratory proof as to what is the cause—weak nerves. In recent years Chiropractic scientists have been giving considerable study to lumbago and lower back pains with the result that pain in lower back conditions can be completely eliminated or reduced to a negligible degree while the patient is still on the adjusting table in better than eighty per cent of the cases handled. This is possible through a better understanding of the cause and correction of weakened lumbar nerves.

The four men's division's were assigned the following industrial firms at last night's meeting: Division A, Louis Waltman and Cecil Furminger, co-majors, Appleton Wire Works; division B, H. H. Blames New Deal For Long Delay In Defense Plan

Lawrence Says Inaction
By Democrats Is Sad
Story of Incompetence

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — The reasons why America is not today prepared for war and who is responsible for the delay are matters of prime importance to the American people. Practically the entire summer has been consumed by the Democratic party in congress and by President Roosevelt in considering the so-called amortization problem which will permit new plants and arms facilities to be built by private industry. The job is not yet done, though, the record shows that the problem has been on the administration's doorstep for more than two years.

Lawrence

Within the last fortnight, the administration, aware of the criticisms being widely expressed, attempted to shift the blame to private industry and a veritable catarrh of abuse was let loose on Capitol Hill which reached a climax in the form of the Russell-Overtown amendment to commander industry. When Wendell Willkie pointed out that such a power was not needed for exercise by any one man and that the real purpose was to get dictatorial powers over industry, irrespective of defense contracts, the President permitted his vice presidential candidate to make an issue of it for political purposes, and the public is, therefore, not being told the whole truth about the neglected amortization problem.

The record shows that on April 13, 1938, the chief of the bureau of ordinance of the navy department, which has the responsibility for seeing to it that guns, armor plate, and explosives are manufactured promptly, foresaw virtually all the present difficulties on the question of depreciation of new plants for war purposes and formally called it to the attention of the secretary of the navy, though it was not until almost a year later—Jan. 13, 1939—before a letter was sent to the treasury by Secretary of the Navy Swanson calling further attention to the problem.

Letter to Swanson
In that original letter of April 13, 1938, which is to be found in the senate committee on appropriations' testimony of May 11, 1939, the whole amortization question is raised in such fashion that the Roosevelt administration cannot now say the matter only came up after Germany invaded Holland and Belgium and began total war. The letter, signed by Admiral Furlong, chief of the bureau of ordinance, U.S.N., says:

"This bureau is confronted with the necessity of procuring the help of private manufacturers in carrying out the naval building program with respect to the manufacture of guns, armor and fuses.

"The facilities of commercial plants to do this class of work are inadequate. Considerable expenditure in plant equipment will be necessary in order to be in a position to manufacture the guns and fuses and certain sizes of armor plate.

"The bureau has found commercial plants reluctant to take up major caliber gun construction. They are not equipping their plants to do it because of the length of time over which they must now spread their allowances of depreciation for plant equipment in determining excess profits. They want to know in advance of outlays of capital for ordinance equipment whether, for purposes of excess profits, depreciation can be allowed against the contract or over a shorter period of years than prevails for commercial equipment.

Equitable System
"In the particular case where the equipment has no value for commercial work, it appears equitable that the companies be allowed a shorter length of time for charging the expenditures made solely on account of this naval work.

"This bureau will be able to state just which tools, machinery and plant investment are necessitated by contracts placed for ordinance and from the probability of repeat orders to the plant will be able to recommend over how many years a particular piece of manufacturing equipment should be charged off.

"It is recommended that representatives from the navy department visit the treasury department and take up this matter informally to pave the way for framing a method to be followed for depreciation allowance later to be approved by the secretaries of the treasury and navy who have joint cognizance in framing the regulations under the act, Public No. 133.

After the preliminary conference definite recommendations would be made to the treasury of the navy on the subject."

What happened after that during the two years or more of inaction is a sad story of official incompetence, politics and sheer indifference to the urgency of preparing America's national defense.

Two Responsible
Two members of President Roosevelt's cabinet had the responsibility — Secretary Morgenthau and Secretary Swanson. The latter was kept at the head of the navy department long after he was physically unable to perform his duties aggressively, and the secretary of the treasury had a disagreement on the amortization problem which

Who's Who in County Politics

(Editor's note—The following is one of a series of articles on the men and women who are directing political activity in Outagamie county. Some of them hold no public office, nor do they seek office, while others are office holders and are candidates this year. These articles are confined to the men and women who have been political leaders first, and candidates and office holders secondly. Their personal reasons for being in politics are given in the articles.)

Long before he was old enough to vote, Attorney Elmer R. Honkamp, 1213 N. Appleton street, found that politics and government interested him.

Honkamp had a strange hold on the state of South Dakota and had created a led to the resignation of Under-Secretary John W. Hanes.

The controversy revolves around this point: Did the treasury have power to handle the amortization question by suitable regulations? The navy thought so. But the treasury haggled and delayed, and what is worse, failed to go to congress to get the needed legislation.

Today the United States does not have enough powder or explosives to carry on a major war and, as for armor plate and bombs, while the private facilities are being strained to the utmost, new plants alone will meet the needs of the army and navy for ordinance. This blunder, which, in the event of an attack from a foreign power would mean at the moment serious losses of life to America, is the result of politics and incompetence in high office and a lack of aggressive leadership. Even today the administration is far more interested in seeing that democracy is used to cover up these mistakes than it is in separating from the already cumbersome excess profits bill that part which deals with amortization and which could have been passed by congress overnight if the president had said the word.

tremendous state debt, greater per capita than that of any state in the union.

"As a result, I grew up to detest dishonesty and incompetency in government," Honkamp said. "Probably the fact that I cannot keep quiet about government explains why I have during recent years been actively engaged in Republican politics in Wisconsin."

Honkamp is Republican district chairman of the Eighth district and for a time in 1937 was chairman of the Outagamie Republican committee but resigned when he was named to the district post. In 1934 he was vice chairman of the county committee and served in the same capacity in 1936. In 1932 he was a candidate for the assembly on the Republican ticket in the First district of Outagamie county.

Following political developments in the state and nation is more than a hobby, Honkamp says, and he maintains it is a pleasure to debate political issues.

"My reward for time and money spent by me in the organization work is the fact that I have developed a great many friendships in different sections of the state and count people of all parties among my friends," he stated.

"The political achievement of which I am most proud is the coalition campaign waged by a small group of Democrats and Republicans which resulted in the landslide which elected Republicans in 1936."

he said. "In my opinion, the coalition permanently derailed the Progressive machine in Wisconsin."

The last census of Sweden, Dec. 31, 1938, showed 6,310,214 residents, of whom the majority were females.

Public Schools Consider NYA

$289,000 Is Allotted
State for Secondary Schools in 1940-41

Appleton public school authorities are studying the National Youth Administration student-work program, according to Superintendent Ben J. Rohan. Appleton has not participated in the program for four or five years.

John Faville, Jr., state administrator for NYA, has announced that $694,985 has been allotted to Wisconsin for this work, $289,850 for secondary schools and the remainder for college and graduate school work.

The total is about $65,000 less than last year's allotment. About 12,500 students of Wisconsin high schools and vocational schools and 4,500 college students participated in the NYA program last year. Fewer will take part this year because of the emphasis the NYA is placing on the national defense work program for out-of-school youth. A total of $1,512,553 has been allotted to the state for NYA work projects for out-of-school youth. This is an increase of $51,555 over the 1939-40 allotment.

The Illusions of Wealth

Into the Kentucky hills we have now planted more than 21 billion dollars which represents approximately three-fourths of the monetary gold in the world.

This is the greatest sum that was ever gathered together by any nation. And America holds the highest percentage of world gold that any nation ever held in all history.

But along with it we have a condition of unemployment that cannot even be cured by a war which has generally cured unemployment everywhere else.

We are face to face with wealth's greatest illusion. For great wealth is as poisonous, and perhaps more so, than extreme poverty. A nation grown fat, dangling before its people insipid loafism, is a more sickening sight than a nation in rags with its muscled citizens valiantly fighting to build something worth while.

An author recently advertised a book entitled "The Real Danger in Our Gold" by reviving an historical story of the days when Julius Caesar was running for his Third Term. There then lived one Crassus, the richest man of his day. And in that day wealth was not held by the nation but by various leaders. It turned out that Crassus wasn't very smart although he had arisen to occupy with Caesar and Pompey the first triumvirate which consisted of the three consuls who ruled the Roman empire. A Greek king named Mithridates who had practically no gold at all battled Crassus and his army, overcame the latter and captured the former. So outraged was this king at the fellow who tried to corner all the gold in the world that he hit upon a novel method of handling the case. He melted a crucible full of the gold and poured it down the throat of Crassus. This brought the end to the earthly career of Crassus just as he learned that gold might be poison.

However much may be argued pro and con the sterling fact protrudes that after we passed a certain medium and reasonable sum our woes seemed to mount with our store of gold. If men crumble and decay when they corner too much of this metal how can it be expected that nations will thrive upon it?

Certainly, at least, we have not learned how to handle it to our own advantage. It is becoming a drag upon the nation just as it makes for mental stagnation and spiritual starvation among the people.

When the Skies Fall

Mr. Churchill says that 1075 civilians have had their life snuffed out in England through the poor marksmanship of German bombers.

Herr Hitler, probably smarting from the number of undiscovered casualties in Germany as a result of British raids, promises to pour a deluge of explosives upon England and wipe out her cities unless careless attacks cease in Germany.

Looking over the pictures of Rotterdam and Warsaw we conclude that England long since would have been razed to the ground were it not that Germany fears her ability to retaliate in kind. Were both sides to send over thousands of bombers and pour tons of explosives upon the other an inconceivable shambles of horror would be created but it is still a question, and a fair one, whether or not just such madness might not tend to return humanity to a state of mind that would actually outlaw war.

Few war mongers fail to think of the possible results to themselves and those dear to them. Since there seldom if ever is a war that might not have been honorably averted what do we need to force men to keep their tempers and smother their mad passions of hatred and intolerance except a vivid picture of the consequences of their failure?

But Hitler will not lose his temper and unleash indiscriminate attacks upon civilians, not as long, at least, as England can truthfully say that she is making thousands of airplanes herself and importing others from America.

Only a lunatic thinks of burning his neighbor's house when he observes that neighbor ready with a torch to retaliate.

Remember, it was Mussolini who said: "Woe to the weak!" Those deserving slavery will fail to heed the warning.

A Drink of Fresh Water in the Desert

Before a group of farmers Mr. Willkie waded into the subject of farm taxes.

He mentioned the obvious harshness of a government that wanted taxes from its farmers when they weren't even making ing enough perhaps to live. He said he believed always in the principle that men should pay taxes in proportion to their ability to pay.

That principle has been groomed and exhibited a great deal by men who like to refer to themselves as sun-kissed liberals. But it has become most conspicuous in American life by its exceptions. Really, isn't it a tragedy in democracy when you find a government cutting a farmer to the bone for taxes while the owner of the mortgage on the farm is suing in foreclosure? And what do you think of a government whose budget is so wild and burdensome that it must do that very thing in order to survive?

But what applies to the farmer applies with equal force to others in a similar situation. We are exacting millions of dollars a year out of some railroads in Wisconsin that have been losing money. And the incongruous, almost lunatic, thing about the situation is that the same government that demands millions every year from those railroads is the government that chokes them and binds their hands so they cannot make enough to live.

We are glad to see Mr. Willkie speak upon this subject because, as yet, his word is good, and we have reason to believe that the wrong of these tax eaters, gougers and spendthrifts rankle in his bosom.

We need a completely revised system of taxation in this country, a system with some degree of honesty. We will never get it through the honeyed crooners. The best chance of securing it is through men who had to struggle themselves just as the farmers have struggled, and just as many industrialists have struggled.

A Promise—but Who to Keep It?

The Gallup poll finds that about one-third of our people do not read the platforms adopted by political parties. This has been pleasing to the Democratic overlords.

And yet if the Democratic party expects to blandly quiet the apprehensions of those who do read platforms over the war course of its fustler by the phrasing of a pink it errs when there is so much evidence for the people to see in conflict with the promise.

The Democratic party, as such, might be entitled to a good deal more trust were it not for the fact that it is a one man affair, and that one man has adopted an attitude which is bound to lead America into war regardless of what he says, and even considering that what he says may be so catalogued that when we find ourselves in armed conflict his friends may assuage our anguish by vociferating that anyway "his intentions were good."

A promise made by men like Senator Wheeler or Glass or Garner or Farley would be scrupulously kept, we have no doubt. But they are readily trusted because their records are splendid and they have the stability of mind which even under great stress or emergency has been consistently steady.

The Northwestern Legion Iron Lungs

A branch of the American Legion consisting of employees of the Northwestern road at Chicago, brought forth a clever and helpful notion when they determined to raise by popular subscription among their members and other employees of the road a fund sufficient to purchase an iron lung that could be quickly transported anywhere on the company's lines to a community that was in need of it. Their drive brought them sufficient funds to purchase two of these mechanical respirators which are so essential in fighting certain diseases, particularly infantile paralysis.

This good-hearted act was inspired by the quick sympathies that arise in men when they learn of suffering at some remote or isolated or unprotected town. It combines with sympathy that good practical sense which those in the railroad world realize as they observe the lines of railroad stretching in every direction. The management made it a perfect day by insuring the availability of these lifesavers without charge wherever they might be wanted in the states served by the railroad.

Here is a good illustration of the teamwork produced when heart and brain work together.

A Verse for Today

PORTRAIT

Beyond the high place where he strides, Behind his manner proud and curt, Where nobody can see, there hides A little boy who can be hurt.

He has a side that no one knows, For who can find that little boy Who used to be? His secret glows Behind a personality.

He seems aloof; his voice is cold, But sometimes even he can tell A boy who never will grow old Still holds him underneath his spell!

COLD-STORAGE ICE
Few things at first sight look more like bon-dogging than the author's work of Dr. May Demorest, of the Geological Society of America, who has shipped east to Yale 350 pounds of ice from a Mt. Rainier glacier, carefully packed in super-cooled dry ice so that it will not melt on the trip. It is easy to imagine cracker-box philosophers condemning college foolishness. Yet actually Dr. Demorest's plans involve a problem sure to be close soon if not to every one's heart, at least to every one's anatomy; the problem of why we ship up on the ice.

For incurious folks the problem is dismissed,

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY GO ROUND

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN
Washington—Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia, who received one vote in the Philadelphia convention for the G.O.P. presidential nomination, soon will assume the chairmanship of a committee of leading progressives to campaign for Roosevelt.

Others prominent in the committee will be Sen. George Norris, veteran Nebraska liberal; William T. Evjue, militant editor of The Capital Times, Madison, Wis., once the official daily of the LaFollette Progressive organization, and David Dubinsky, head of the International Ladies Garment Workers' union, which last spring bolted the CIO to return to the AFL.

Headquarters of the progressive committee will be in New York. It will have no connection with the Democratic National committee and will operate independently. David Niles, astute former aide of Harry Hopkins, will be executive director. In 1924, Niles was one of the managers of the LaFollette-Wheeler independent presidential campaign.

Both LaGuardia and Norris plan active speaking tours, the former making a transcontinental trip, and Norris making several speeches in the Middle West, where he has a large following.

Note—See Bob LaFollette, up for re-election this year, is telling friends that personally he is for Roosevelt, but is awaiting the action of the Wisconsin Progressive convention this month before declaring for him publicly. The LaFollette supported Roosevelt in 1932 and 1936.

Cordell Hull put on a great show for newsmen the day the destroyer deal was announced. Hull hasn't been so eloquent for years.

Usually his press conferences are flat and unprofitable. The secretary of state is a master of evasion and understatement. He stands at the end of the long polished table, with his long hands folded over the back of a chair, looking down his nose at nobody.

But when the boys asked Hull about the legality of sending destroyers to England in exchange for British bases, his eyes flashed, his halting delivery disappeared and he defended the deal with a force and fluency that made the room electric.

There was only one thing wrong. As newsmen were about to burst from the room with the Hull statement, they were cautioned to use it only for "background." This meant no quotes and no attribution.

Cabled reaction from Tokyo indicated that the Japanese were suspicious that something more than appeared on the surface was behind Cordell Hull's warning against the invasion of French Indo-China.

In this, they were right. There was.

Nobody in the navy department is shouting it from the house tops, but the U. S. fleet—or at least most of it—will now remain in the Pacific. Previously it was considered necessary to bring the fleet from Hawaii and California in order to station most of it around Panama and the Caribbean. This would have made it impossible to keep a watchful eye on Japanese operations in the direction of the Malays and the Dutch East Indies—all important sources of American tin and rubber.

Probably it will still be necessary to bring a few ships to the Atlantic side of the canal. But the island base deal with Great Britain has now made it possible to police most of the Caribbean and the Atlantic seaboard by air instead of by sea.

At first the chief improvement to the new U. S. bases on British islands will be airports. Not only are they needed immediately, but also are cheapest and quickest to construct. Naval bases, which mean oil tanks and repair facilities, take time to build and may never be constructed to any great extent. The U. S. navy will take advantage of British naval facilities for the time being. Significant was the fact that many of the destroyers being sold to England were fitted out with cables to neutralize magnetic mines even before the deal was published by the president. In other words, there had been no real doubt for a week or so before the announcement that the deal would be closed.

perhaps, by saying ice is slippery, but philosophers still want to know why. One theory used to be that ice melts under a little pressure, so that a hard heel pressed down by a portly gentleman generates beneath itself a film of water which in turn goes before a fall. Undoubtedly there is some truth in this. Undoubtedly, too, this pressure theory goes part of the way to explain why a snowball sticks together when the snow is pressed, why the mountain snow comes down like very slow molasses. The explanation's trouble begins when details are considered. Why do glaciers move faster or slower at different times, not always or simply related to the weather? What fixes the days or hours when avalanches fall? Why is the icy pavement sometimes treacherously slippery, sometimes not?

Like most things nowadays, atoms seem to be at the bottom of it. Experiments with what chemists call the Raman Effect, named for Sir Venkata Raman of Bangalore who discovered it by accident, seem to prove that even liquid water has a skeleton of stuck-together atoms; softer and looser when warm, growing more nearly rigid as it cools. What looks like solid ice seems to be ten more complex, perhaps with several delicate atomic networks interlocked with each other, as though one built the framework of two skyscrapers upon one lot. Ice is not merely ice nor water water. Several kinds of each exist, perhaps many kinds. All that is necessary for Dr. Demorest's glacial ice from Mt. Rainier to be well worth the cost of eastward shipment in cold storage is for it to turn out instructively different from local waters of the New Haven iceman.—New York Herald Tribune.

MARGARINE AND TRADE BARRIERS

Recognizing the necessity for destroying state trade barriers, the Mississippi senate, without debate, has repealed the state's licensing tax on oleomargarine. The vote was impressive—38 to 3. It is also significant in that it represents a courageous and intelligent viewpoint.

Mississippi is developing a dairy state. Had it followed the line of reasoning which prevailed when taxes were imposed on oleomargarine, the senate would have retained the tax on the false promise of protecting its infant dairy industry at the expense of its larger cottonseed industry.

It has never been proved that the dairy industry has been threatened by the production and sale of oleomargarine, for the latter is essentially a "poor man's butter," used in the main by those whose economy does not permit purchase of the dairy industries' butter products. If repeal of all state margarine taxes could be obtained for the South's important cottonseed industry, but it seems almost impossible to convince some people of that fact.

On the very day the Mississippi senate repealed that state's tax, a bill was introduced in Kentucky imposing a 5-cent levy on each pound of margarine sold and a licensing fee on manufacturers and retailers. Obviously, the intent is to kill the sale of margarine in that state.

It is hoped that the National Cotton Council and others will make it a point to acquaint Kentucky's legislature with the facts and figures on oleomargarine as they relate to the cottonseed industry and to the economy of the poor. If a proper presentation is made, it is not likely that Kentuckians, part and parcel of the South, will approve the measure.—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

A Bystander In Washington

This is the Democratic view of the labor problem. The Republican view was presented yesterday.

BY ROBERT F. WAGNER

U. S. Senator From New York

The American worker's creed is that he shall have an equitable share in the wealth he produces, and a right to be heard in the councils of the industry from which he draws his bread. This creed is as old as our country, but the Roosevelt administration has given it a national charter. Upon the economic wreckage inherited from the Republican party in 1933, we have re-established the foundations of opportunity, security and freedom for those who live by their labor.

Our first objective has been full employment in private enterprise at fair wages. From nine to ten million more persons are employed in private enterprise today than in March, 1933, and factory workers have $110,000,000 more in their weekly pay envelopes. Through our nation-wide system of employment offices, millions of idle workers have been guided to available jobs. We have outlawed child labor in factories, enacted a sound wage-hour law, and enforced fair labor standards on government contracts. For the first time under federal law, men and women receive equal pay for equal work.

Our Public Works, NYA and CCC programs have permanently enriched the material resources of the nation, and fortified the morale of millions of youths and adults who cannot find jobs in private industry. We will maintain this responsibility toward the needy unemployed, against the efforts of the Republican party to return relief to the states and the unemployed to the dole.

Our second objective has been the long-range security of the home and the family against the handicaps and hazards of modern industrial life. To provide every American worker with the frugal comforts of a decent home, we have launched a great program of slum clearance and low-rent housing.

Unemployment insurance laws in every state now protect the worker and his family against privation in periods of temporary unemployment. Over 50 million accounts have been established to provide security as a matter of right under the Federal Old Age and Survivors insurance system. Better health protection is the next great step in our social security program.

Our third objective has been to achieve a democracy in industry worthy of a free people. We have guaranteed by law the worker's right to organize and bargain collectively through representatives of his own choosing. The National Labor Relations act has provided a peaceful forum for 28,000 cases involving over six million workers. Nine out of every ten cases disposed of have been satisfactorily adjusted without even holding a formal hearing. More than one million employees have voted in thousands of peaceful labor elections. Ever since the act has had a fair chance to exert its pacific influence, collective bargaining agreements have multiplied and industrial strife has declined.

These measures have been part of a program of economic recovery for business, under which profits have multiplied and industrial production and national income raised to levels higher than in 1929.

Because we have emphasized the human element in industry, labor is taking its rightful place as a partner of management in the common cause of industrial efficiency and national unity. To these broad advances should now be added the strengthening of our preparations for national defense. Employment exchanges, fair labor standards, collective bargaining and improved machinery for mediation of labor disputes, works projects and better housing were all found necessary for increased industrial efficiency during the World War period. They are serving the nation well today.

The Democratic party is pledged to hold fast to these gains in our economic efficiency, to defend our fiscal institutions by preparedness against aggression from without, and to continue to stand guard on our true first line of defense at home—the security and welfare of the men, women and children of America.

Going to Answer All of Them, Uncle?

Under the CAPITOL DOME

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—All over Wisconsin today anxious politicians are anxiously thumbing the last section of the Wisconsin state blue book.

The pages devoted to the election returns, trying to deduce from the record of the past the prospect for the primary election which will be held next Tuesday.

In Wisconsin politics, predictions are hazardous. The pages devoted to the election returns, trying to deduce from the record of the past the prospect for the primary election which will be held next Tuesday.

Most encouraging sign for the Republicans this year is the healthy condition of local tickets; and local tickets, the politicians will tell you; bring out the votes. In some of the most important counties of the state Republicans find their primary tickets for sheriff and other local offices crowded to a degree never found before. In others they find Democrats and Progressives finding it likely that they will bring their own friends with them into the Republican column in the primary at least.

One of the state's most intelligent politicians used to tell his friends of the importance of the county sheriff in party politics. The average voter, he says, votes for president first. But his second interest is the local sheriff contest. After he has disposed of that he votes for governor, senator, etc. Thus in the state primary, with a presidential ballot available, a large number of voters can be expected to think first of the sheriff when they are in the polling booth, a fact which this year reduces to the benefit of the G. O. P.

And that, incidentally, is the most powerful factor mitigating against the passage of legislation putting local officers on non-partisan ballots. Progressives, Republicans and Democrats need local tickets for their state campaigns, and the three parties control the legislature.

FEW NEEDED

In 1938 the Progressives polled just under 170,000 votes for governor in the primary. There is no reason to believe that they will better that showing in next week's balloting. Therefore it can be seen that with five candidates running, and each of them a relatively strong, the winning candidate may be the one who is able to get 40,000 votes.

Two years ago the junior U. S. senator from Wisconsin, Alexander Wiley, managed to win the Republican nomination with a total of 70,000 votes in the field of six candidates. This year there are seven candidates, with the lesser bidders stronger and more active than the trailing candidates of 1936, making it likely again that the senatorial nominee will be determined by a relatively tight total of votes.

POT-POURRI

Gen. Frank, Jr., a newspaperman, is handling his father's public campaign as a candidate for U. S. senator.

There has yet to be heard a single audible objection to the failure of the Heil administration to pay interest on the accumulated debt to the teachers' retirement fund.

Heil advisors have decided that there is no legal authority for the payment of interest, although had the state payments been made when due, the pension fund would now be earning interest on the amount invested.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

SCIENCE IS FUNNY

I have been reading your column for years (writes a professional man). It was you who first informed me concerning the ambulant treatment of hernia. A number of physicians had urged me to enter the hospital and have the operation. Acting on your suggestion I consulted Dr. — who, proved highly skilled and capable. I believe my hernia is permanently cured and have not had the slightest interruption of my every-day activities. It is now over two years since I finally discarded my truss and there has been no sign of any recurrence of the hernia. Therefore I was astonished by the article enclosed—I thought it might interest you too (H.E.S.)

The article is a one-column essay under a screaming four-column headline "Injections for Hernia Declared Worthless" by a "bright young man featured as "Science Editor." According to the article a doctor working in a "clinic" had tried his hand at injection treatment of hernia in 74 cases and had not been very successful with it, so he decided the method was "virtually worthless." The doctor admitted, however, that the ambulant or injection treatment appeared to give "lasting relief" in two-thirds of the cases of "very simple indirect hernia."

A plodding door-to-door doctor naturally has no proper comprehension of the scientific aspects of the question, but still it does seem that a method of treatment which gives satisfactory results in selected cases is not "virtually worthless," even in the hands of one who has not seen fit to seek instruction in the difficult technique under a teacher who has had successful experience with it.

Too many doctors have attempted to use this and other modern methods without the formality of such instruction, and their bungling brings unmerited discredit on the method — which they hasten to blame as loudly as they can, to cover their failure.

Consulting Watson's "Hernia" — a recognized standard textbook which is or should be in every good medical library, (second edition, 1938, Mosby, St. Louis)—one finds these statistics:

"In a total of 659 patients over fifty years of age operated on for indirect inguinal hernia at the——Hospital there were 170 recurrences, or 25.8 per cent."

"In 6,027 operations by 34 surgeons there was recurrence of the hernia in 5.58 per cent of the cases."

"In 1,485 hernia operations on 1,092 patients there were 25 operative deaths."

The operation for hernia is not exactly a hundred per cent cure. But let's be practical rather than scientific and admit the operation is not only necessary and advisable but the only method of treatment suitable for many cases of hernia; and that it succeeds in curing the hernia in the majority of cases.

If I had hernia I'd choose injection treatment. Along with it I'd follow suitable exercises to prevent hernia and aid in the cure. There exercises will be described in a later article about hernia, or you may send stamped addressed envelope for monograph on "Hernia."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Rind.

Is there any food value or vitamin content in the rind of an orange? Does it contain anything harmful? Have been drinking orange juice made by grinding up the whole orange, rind, pulp and all.

Answer—It has practically no food value, some value as cellulose or residue which promotes good intestinal digestion, perhaps some value in vitamins, nothing harmful in it, all right if the orange juice is satisfactory in taste.

Rolls and Blood Pressure

Is it wise for one with high blood pressure to do six somersaults each night and morning? (W. F. D.)

Answer—Depends on what ails him. He had better be guided by his physician's advice.

"Nerves" a Poor Ailment

Can you give any suggestion to help overcome "nerves"? That is my chief handicap. If it were not for my rotten nerves I might be— (E. S.)

Answer—It depends whether you are a Class A or a Class B neurotic. If the former, there is hope. If you are a B, have it your own way but don't blame me for your choice. Send twenty-five cents coin and stamped envelope bearing your address, for booklet "Nerves and Nutrition."

Red Nose

I am most grateful to you for use of your recipes on and off for a few months I have gotten rid of a "run blossom" that made my life miserable. Now my nose is free from shine and redness and I am happy about it. (Miss E. A.)

Answer—"White lotion" is a famous local remedy for shiny, red nose—teaspoonful zinc sulfate, teaspoonful potassium sulfatate (potassium sulfide), and enough rose water to make four ounces of lotion. Shake well, pat on skin with fingers, let dry over night, wash off next morning. For copy of 80-page "Save Your Skin" containing many recipes for home made cosmetics and remedies for common skin troubles, send twenty-five cents in coin and 1-cent stamped envelope bearing your address.

Behind the News Just a Step

By Dave Boone

I see that the Miss America contest remains as one of the few unchanged American institutions, and that Miss Frances Marie Burke of Philadelphia is the 1940 winner, with Rosemary La Planche of Los Angeles runner up, and Monnie Drake of Detroit third. It was a camera flash.

I've seen the pictures and even girl is so easy on the eyes that if I'd have been a judge I'd have called it a dead heat. It took a courageous committee to call it anything else.

It's good to know there's one institution dear to this country that hasn't been modified, revised, purged or put under federal control. How we escaped a M. A. A. (Miss America Administration) or F. B. D. B. (Federal Beauty Projects Board) is beyond me.

It seems to me that the 1940 Miss America is one of the best looking in years, but there are folks who will insist there were better lookers when the Republicans were in power. I don't know whether Miss Burke is for Roosevelt or Willkie.

But if I was a candidate and she came out for me I'd take my mug off the campaign buttons and put her face on 'em. Votes are votes.

The county pension department civil service plan, delayed because of countless disputes between the state, federal and local governments, may not become effective until the next legislative session, although the last session intended it to become effective immediately.

Quotas by Population Only Fair Way to Draft Soldiers

BY HUGH S. JOHNSON

Washington, D. C.—The Nichols amendment to the selective service bill was tacked on in the house with the Fish amendment. The latter was cheap political money-business. Part of it—the 60 days delay—is unimportant. The rest of it—a recruiting ballyhoo drawing a hateful distinction between "volunteers" and "conscripts"—endangers the whole effort.

The Nichols amendment doesn't do that and didn't seem to be politically inspired. It is just a bonehead blunder. We made it in the 1917 draft and had to rush to congress to correct it. Why legislators won't study that experience before legislating, is beyond comprehension.

The Nichols amendment requires that quotas be ascribed to each state and local board area in proportion to population and that each locality be given credit on its quota for all its men who shall have already volunteered. The part about quota credit was already in the law. The big bone is the assignment of quotas in proportion to population.

That is the way we started out in the World War. Immediately panicky protests appeared in many districts. We found local board areas in this country where not ten per cent of the population were citizens or men who had declared their intention to become citizens.

The rule of assessing quotas according to population threatened to oppress whole areas of aboriginal Americans. Some of these districts, like those in the Big Bend country of Texas, were along the Mexican border, where as a result of Pershing's punitive expedition the feeling between Mexicans and Americans was none too friendly. For that and many other reasons the application of such a rule couldn't be deferred.

Where Those Liable to Service Are Few Unfairness Begins. One of these other reasons was that in localities where the number of men liable to military service is unusually low relative to its population to get their quotas the boards have to apply the rules governing exemptions much more harshly than where the supply of men is normal. That produces exactly the result we do not want if we are to consider the people as we did in 1917 of the absolute fairness, justice and equality of this method of raising an army. The population rule makes for racial differences in applying this sacrificial law—differences and inequalities dependent on the mere accident of locality. If this selection can't be kept above the shadow of suspicion of such political maneuvering and unfairness and unequal application as are found in the fish "volunteering" political humbug and the blundering Nichols amendment, it is apt to fail.

The only fair basis for assigning quotas to each district is the ratio of the number of men available for service in that district to the number of men available for service in the whole United States.

It is true that this can't be determined until after the classification, but tentative quotas can be assigned on estimates to be promptly corrected as soon as classification is complete. That correction is made both by credits for errors in the estimates and credits for men already in service.

The assignment of quotas by population is an estimate at the beginning and remains so to the end. After the men are actually numbered and classified the assignment of quotas on the basis of availability is statistically accurate.

There is no guess-work about any statement in this column. The system here suggested was proved to be correct by trial and error. The system of the Nichols amendment was proved by that method to be incorrect and impossible. There was not one single complaint of the 1918 quota system that was not promptly corrected to the satisfaction of ex-servicemen. Don't we ever learn anything by experience?

Vote to Regulate Water Carriers

Washington, D. C.—Legislation which would subject water carriers to regulation similar to that now applicable to railroads and motor carriers won final congressional approval Monday.

The senate accepted a compromise version of the regulatory bill which was first passed by both houses last year and was twice referred to a joint house-senate committee for revision.

The vote on passage was announced at 5:15.

Before sending the bill to the White House the senate rejected 21 to 23 a contention by Senator Clark (D-Mo.) that it had been drafted in violation of senate rules.

In its final form the measure contained provision for compensation of up to four years for workers who might be displaced by consolidations and reorganizations of transportation systems.

Most inland coast-wise and inter-coastal water carriers would be brought under interstate commerce commission regulation for the first time with respect to rates and other matters.

O. K. never look back. But... Clintonville.—The 'Seventy-Year Club' of St. Martin Lutheran church was entertained Sunday afternoon at the church parlors by the Men's club, this being an annual social event for the two groups. About 125 persons were present, including members of the families of the "old folks." Of the 90 members of the club, there were 33 present for the roll call. Seven died during the last year and 12 new members were added. Mrs. Henriette Prentel, 95 of this city, is the oldest member but was unable to attend. The oldest one present was George Schults, 87, and the youngest was Mrs. August Timm, who attained the age of 70 only about a month ago. Red carnations were presented to the club members in attendance.

The program opened with a hymn, after which there was an address by the pastor the Rev. W. O. Speckhard. A memorial service was conducted for Mrs. Christ Fish. Mrs. Augusta Klemm, Mrs. Fred

Capital Draft Is Real Threat To Democracy

Pickard Tells Lions Club That Banks Are Ready for Emergency

American banks are prepared to do their part in the defense rearmament program which is a part of the national "reawakening" which has followed the rapid increase of the threat of Hitlerism, and "to draft capital for the service of the nation is not only unnecessary but also a real threat to American democracy," Samuel Pickard, president of National Manufacturers bank of Neenah and former president of the Wisconsin Bankers association, told members of the Lions club at a luncheon meeting Monday noon at the Conway hotel.

Pickard described how the last ten years have been a period in which Americans have neglected fundamental guiding principles and how "we have covered over our faith in democracy and the institutions it has produced with a thin and uncertain belief in economic cure-alls advocated by political economists whose personal salesmanship blocked out our common sense."

The sudden shock of blitzkrieging warfare has forced people to reaffirm their faith in the American way as a strong foundation to which to cling, but "sometimes hysteria follows fear and our good sense yields to what falsely seems justified in the emergency," the banker warned.

He outlined the recent climatic changes in Russia and Germany as "philosophies of emergencies" and emphasized that much of the history of the nations of the world can be written in terms of the reaction of governments and their people to emergencies in national life.

With a reawakening of the spirit of America underway, he warned against the surrender of American rights to political control under pressure of demagogues who urge us to give over our institutions and our economic system for 'emergency' safekeeping.

"This is no time to temporize with 'hearts or to play politics. This is the time to fall upon our task of revitalizing our nation and doing it well."

Capital ready to work

The banker pointed out that just as American industry, labor and farms are ready to do their job so American capital is eager to get to work to make the job possible. In opposition to claims that America's locally owned independent banks are not lending money when and where it is needed, Pickard quoted statistics of the American Banking association to show that business firms in Wisconsin are using only about one-third of the 'open lines of credit' maintained for their use on the books of the banks.

Ninety banks in the larger centers of the state reported that they carried on their books during the second half of the year $103,820,718 in 'open lines of credit' consisting of specific amounts offered to and kept available for established borrowers for use as needed by them. Of this amount only 32.2 per cent was actually used. He also quoted national and state figures on new and renewal loans made by banks.

These statistics were used by the banker to indicate that capital has been earnestly seeking out every opportunity for every worthwhile employment it could find in the last seven years. "Banks have been advertising for opportunities to make loans, and some of them have actually sent their officers out to canvass business houses, just as a salesman goes to see prospective customers to try to find opportunities for making sound loans."

He pointed out that unemployed capital cannot be put to work without a job any more than can unemployed men be put to work without jobs. Drafting capital for the service of America would be unnecessary, he emphasized. "It would be just like drafting a soldier who has been standing in front of a recruiting office for months waiting for the politicians to open the doors so that he can get in to re-enlist."

He stressed that the control of capital is the cardinal point or the basis of communism and fascism, and once this is achieved, democracy ceases to exist and dictatorship begins. "The American people must not allow themselves to be forced or stampeded into losing their democracy in the hour of national emergency. No emergency can justify the loss of the very thing we are striving to preserve."

Madison—"Learn to relax to combat nervous tension," the State Medical Society advises in a health bulletin received today.

"Take short vacations from your desk and you will find they pay ample dividends in the constant freshness they bring to your work. Unfortunately, most people have never learned this or any of the other simple relaxing devices useful in combating one of the chief bugaboos of our high-powered civilization—nervous tension. Its symptoms may be seen everywhere, biting lips or nails, wringing handkerchiefs, fidgeting, constant scowling, clenching fists, quick irritation, fumbling the face, cracking knuckles, or tapping toes. They are all evidences of residual tension, a constant strain of nerves and muscles which prevents the individual from relaxing."

"Both work and play lead to tension, and often they are joint causes. People unwisely assume that vigorous recreational activity will naturally neutralize tension developed on their jobs, but this may not be true. Unless rest is an intermediary, new exertion will simply create added strain. No matter how you spend your leisure, always devote a

Ours is a high pressure civilization. Everywhere, we are goaded into expending every energy to attain the rewarding end-all called success. But we limit our enjoyment of any success if, in attaining it, we develop undesirable states of sustained nervous excitement. For lives that are both fruitful and healthy, let us add to the copy book maxim—"Work hard, another—Take it easy—RELAX."

Throw Game Away in Try For Slam

BY ELY CULBERTSON

The forcing take out of partner's opening bid is one of the most delicate of all bids and, not unnaturally, therefore one of the most mis-handled. Take a deal like today's for example. I regret to say that almost every average player would bid just as North did.

South, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.
Rubber bridge.

NORTH		EAST
♠ 4 3 2	♥ A K	♠ 10 7 5 4	♥ 9 7 3
♦ A Q J 4	♣ K 10 5	♦ 8 5	♣ Q J 8 8
♠ 10 8 6	♥ 8 5	♦ 8 5	♣ Q J 8 8
♠ 8 5	♥ A 9 6 4 2	♦ 8 5	♣ Q J 8 8

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	3 diamonds	Pass
4 diamonds	Pass	4 hearts	Pass
5 diamonds	Pass	5 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

West took in his club ace on the opening lead and after that, of course, there was no way for declarer to avoid the loss of two trump tricks, hence the contract was down one. North-South had thrown away a game and could not even console themselves with the thought that they had gone out for the extra profit and glory of a slam.

North had allowed the possession of four-plus honor tricks to obscure his judgment. His bidding had trapped the partnership into a position where it had much more to lose than to gain. Let us analyze each separate bid.

South's one-spade, although light was eminently correct. He had a respectable four card spade suit, and a diamond suit which could be safely bid if North's response proved to be an unfavorable one no trump or two clubs.

North, with four-plus honor tricks and pretty good spade support, was entirely justified in his three diamond jump takeout, but after South raised to four diamonds, North's four heart bid was out of order, and, as may be seen, put South in a trap. He could not dream of re-bidding his short spade suit. He dared not pass, despite his heart support, because he suspected North now was bidding a short suit merely to show "control." Hence his only recourse was to return to diamonds. And the partnership was over its head the moment it reached the five level.

The trouble came from the fact that North did not appreciate the true meaning of his own original jump takeout. After the strong action, it was unnecessary to show the heart control. A mere four spade bid would have done complete justice to North's holding. North had an excellent hand but there was a definite weak spot in it, his trump support. This was indeed "pretty good" as far as game was concerned but not good enough for slam purposes. South never had rebid spades. There was good ground for suspecting that he had a four card suit no more solid, and perhaps even weaker, than the one he actually had. North had no right to suppose that South had the A-K or A-Q-J of spades, plus the diamond king and the club ace. Hence, it was probable that the club ace was "off the hand." If South, after a jump takeout and a spade raise from North, could take no voluntary action, it was a virtual cinch that no slam would be missed. North's four heart bid, therefore, was redundant.

THE HOME GARDENER by EDWIN H. PERKINS

Geraniums that were set out in the garden have more than likely grown too large now for window-garden use. If cuttings were taken off them several weeks ago, they are making strong new growth and should be potted for indoor use without delay. Earlier potting may have been done—if it wasn't it must have immediate attention.

When repotting these plants, as well as pansies and the palmetto sansevieria, keep in mind that they do somewhat better indoors when their roots are cramped. When provided with large amounts of soil, the growths made are not so strong and healthy, as they are when a root system, which seems large enough to fill a five-inch pot, is potted into a four-inch pot. In order to accomplish this it may become necessary to shake out all the old soil and use new freshly prepared material for every repotting.

Potting soil for this type of plants should be light, not too sandy or humus-laden, but also rich.

Beauty and You

As with most women, days come along which seem too much for me! Jammed with appointments, writing to do, and other daily chores. Usually too, those days are followed by evening engagements which are difficult to cancel. But I have scheduled a specific reviving routine which tends to banish the fatigue from my body and permit me to face the evening hours with some poise and personal attractiveness. Perhaps you would like to know what I do.

I close myself in my bedroom refusing to answer telephone or door knockings. Sitting at my dressing table I give my face and neck a thorough massage with plenty of cleansing cream after which I wash with soap and water. Then I dampen and pin up any straggling curls, don a shower cap and apply a cream masque to my skin which I do not take off until after a fifteen-minute relaxing bath. In the bath water I pour my currently favored scented for I feel one breathes a lovely perfume as tensed muscles ease, one's spirits get a fillip too. The bath water is as hot as I can stand and when I have lathered long enough I let the cold water run in to cool my skin and then rinse it.

Once out, a brisk drying with a rough Turkish towel and a splash of fragrant cologne makes me ready for fresh underthings.

My hair gets a good brushing too, either before I pin up the curls or after they have set.

Beauty Angelo Rest

Another fifteen minutes is spent reclining on my bed with my feet higher than my head and my hips raised with pillows. My eyes are covered with herbal eye pads saturated in very hot water (the masque is still on my face). Thus I rest and refuse to think! Every little worry or memorandum I endeavor to drive from my mind.

At first this is difficult. My mind races. All the little things I must do tomorrow start to crowd into my thoughts! But with will I can force them out and get a very restful forty winks before getting up. (Every woman could do this if she tried earnestly.)

Final Groomings

With splashes of clear warm and cold water I remove the cream masque. Then I wash out my eyes, touch up my nails, apply a thin film of make-up foundation, and then the glamour. (I try to keep my lipstick and my nail polish with what I wear.)

If it is very hot I take the same precaution of using a deodorant or anti-perspirant as I advise you to use. This is applied after the bath and before the body cologne.

Fortunately, I have almost no trouble with my feet but if they are slightly tired any night, I runse them under the cold water tap after soaking them in the hot bath. Then I give them a firm rubbing with alcohol or cologne.

After such a schedule (which usually does not take me quite an hour) I leave the house refreshed and feeling somewhat like a beauty editor should feel who knows all the secrets!

Case Records of a Psychologist

By Dr. George W. Crane
Psychologist, Northwestern University

It is unwise to prod a child so much that he gets two or three years ahead of his age group in school. Though he may meet his older classmates on a par in classroom subjects, he is likely to be left out of their games and athletic events. Thus, he becomes a social misfit, pathetically longing to be treated as a social equal; hungry for friends and the camaraderie which he would have enjoyed with those of his own chronological age.

CASE R-168: Sarah P., aged 12, is a brilliant girl.

"She just finished the 'seventh grade,' her mother informed me, 'and had the highest average in the class.'

"School work is very easy for her. In fact, the mental tester said she had the highest intelligence quotient in the entire room."

"She has decided it would be a good idea to go to summer school and thus get ahead of her class. Next year, therefore, she'd be in an advanced room."

"Dr. Crane, what do you think about the idea?"

DIAGNOSIS:

A brilliant child is certainly a joy, not only to its parents but also to the teacher.

But there are many things in life which a child should learn besides the limited subjects in the grammar school curriculum.

Too much emphasis on purely academic subjects may produce a top-heavy or lopsided personality. And a star pupil, if prodded and spotlighted excessively, may become an intellectual grandstander.

We have had "brain trusters" of this sort the past decade who made brilliant records in the college classroom but were miserable failures in practice. They lacked "horse sense."

Teach Children Horse Sense

Since "horse sense" means practical judgment derived from facing the problems of real life in contrast to the theoretical and often highly artificial environment of the classroom, it would be far better for Sarah to study "horse sense" this summer.

She would thus supplement her technical classroom knowledge, and still retain her position in the same room with her friends.

She could utilize her superior intelligence by learning to swim and

Marry Girl for What She Is, Not Her Riches

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—I am a young professional man, engaged to marry a girl much better off financially than I am. When I met her I was impressed with her expensive car, her furs, jewels and so forth, and I liked her personally, too, but I know that if she had been poor I would not have given her a second thought. Do you think I will be happy if I marry her? My friends say that she is only a bird in a gilded cage and that I should marry some sweet girl who has little, or less, than I have. Do you think it is a good idea for a poor boy to marry a rich girl?

WONDERING LAD

Answer:

No, I don't. I think no other marriage has as little chance of success as that in which the wife holds the purse strings, and that no other man gets so richly punished as the one who sins against love by marrying a girl for what she has instead of what she is. It reverses the law of nature for the wife to be the provider and the husband the dependent. No matter how kind and generous the woman he has married is, no man can have her hold out money to him without a sense of degradation. Nor can he keep from writing under the half-veiled contempt he sees in the faces of all who meet who regard him as nothing but a parasite—a rich woman's pet who rears along with her people.

To begin with, it is a fatal thing for a man to marry without love because all the circumstances of his life tend to make him critical of his wife and focus his attention upon her shortcomings.

Nothing but love can blind a husband to his wife's faults and keep him from perceiving the superior attractions of other women, and the man who lacks this aesthetic to dull the pangs of the sacrifices that marriage inevitably demands is doomed to a life of misery.

Moreover, in addition to the imperfections that all wives have, the rich girl contributes a still more drawbacks to the problem of how to be happy through married. Her money makes her independent, so she can snap her fingers in her husband's face and tell him where he can go if he doesn't like what she does.

Her whole rearing has cultivated in her selfishness and arrogance and made the pursuit of pleasure her main object in life, and she expects her poor little husband to earn his board and keep by trotting at her heels and yes-saying her.

Of course, this isn't always the case. There are girls who have had the misfortune to have been born millionaires who have hearts and souls and brains, just as poor girls have, but even so, when the man loves the woman honestly and truly, for herself alone, her money nearly always destroys him.

I know, for example, a case in which a fine rich girl married an equally fine boy who was just beginning to make a brilliant success in his profession. The boy was loath to enter into the marriage because he was ambitious and independent and wanted to succeed on his own, but the girl agreed to live on his earnings and they started off happily in a moderate-priced little flat.

But the girl, used to cars and chauffeurs and chefs and to rushing madly from place to place, soon tired of riding in busses and doing housework and staying at home.

"Why," she would demand to know of her husband, "should we live like paupers when we have thousands of dollars piling up every day in the bank? Why shouldn't we travel while we are young and see the world? What's the good of quitting applies. Concerning the fork there is no set rule—follow the custom of your house."

Dear Mrs. Post: When I was in the hospital not long ago, a friend brought me some flowers from her garden. She arranged them in a vase, I don't know whether this vase is supposed to be returned to her or not. She didn't say anything about it, but I brought it home from the hospital with me just for safety's sake.

Answer: When flowers are sent you by a neighbor, the container is meant to be returned. When they are arranged in a vase and sent by a florist, the vase is meant to be kept. Under the circumstances you speak of, I would if I were you, when you thank her for the flowers, tell her that you are returning the vase soon. If she wants for you to keep it, she will tell you to do so.

Salad Fork Again

Dear Mrs. Post: When salad is served on a separate plate with the meat and vegetable course, is it proper to provide a separate fork for salad eating, or is the same fork supposed to be used for everything?

Answer: You probably know that it is not "correct" to serve salad at the same time as the meat and vegetables. Therefore, no rule of et-

Discipline More Than Making Student Mind

BY ANGELO PATRI

The first question a young teacher asks is, "How can I discipline these children? How can I make them behave?"

That question rises out of a mistaken notion of what discipline is. The notion common in schools is that discipline means making children do what the teacher wants them to do, when she wants it, as she wants it. Real discipline, the only kind worth having, is the self-control of a pupil who wants to do his best work under the conditions he meets. The two points of view must be harmonized if there is to be worth while discipline and work in the school.

Small children must learn the technique of school behavior. They have to learn to work together, to follow directions, to stand when it is time to stand and to sit when it is time to sit. The little ones have to learn the meaning of a time for everything. That is a form of important school discipline that must be taught and learned early, when the children are at the right stage of development to use it to their satisfaction. The first-graders love to stand, face, and march to orders; love to sing in concert; delight in quick, massed action.

Early Freedom Not Advisable

These stage passes and the school routine should recognize that and adjust to it. Gradually the child takes over his routine, takes control of his activities, so that by the time he is ready to enter high school he is fairly able to go alone. Even then he is going to need a bit of guidance but it should be guidance, not domination.

Some teachers, parents included, make the mistake of skipping the first stages of discipline. They do not understand that a little child must have leadership and guidance and authoritative control to enable him to find his way about without too much waste of energy and too much habit loss. They have an idea that to allow a child to go his way untended is to allow him the highest possible privilege and self-expression. They forget that the first requisite in that situation is possession of a self worth expressing. That kind of self must be developed under discipline.

Should Know Way Around

How does one know a disciplined child when he sees one? Some do not. Some still believe that the silent, speak-when-spoken-to, go-when-called child is disciplined. He is not. He is a dormant child moving in another's mind, under another's power. Kept in this state too long he will never come to his estate, the exercise of his mind as a free spirit.

The disciplined child is one who works purposefully, without waste, without noise, in harmony with those about him. He moves easily about the business of the day. He asks questions about what interests him and his interests are worth while. He looks people frankly in the face and has respect for their feelings and opinions. He yields place when it is necessary, lends a hand when he sees it is needed, takes responsibility when it is offered him. He is a person in his own right while recognizing the rights of others.

The kind of child develops under the right conditions. He is not the outgrowth of orders, commands and punishments. He is the spiritual response to an educational process based upon spiritual understanding.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

YESTERDAY: Sandra tells Kay she is afraid of Jeff. She says in Kay's room while Kay goes to the Pennant's to help them plan parties for the bride and groom. When Kay returns Sandra finishes the typing of Kay's newest love story.

Chapter 26

Spot Of Detecting

"You send these right to the magazine," she said curiously. "I thought writers had agents to handle things for them."

"Good agents don't care to be bothered with pulp stories—there isn't enough money in them."

"You've sent these people other things? They know who you are?"

"Oh yes, I sell them a story every month or so."

"What becomes of it if they don't take it?"

"I enclose return postage and they send it back. So then I try someone else."

"How long before they send it back? I mean, if they don't buy it?"

"Couple of weeks, more or less."

"Do they ever lose a manuscript?"

"Sometimes. I suppose. I've never had one lost. But I keep a copy, just in case."

People are always asking questions like that, but maybe I would have begun to wonder why she pursued the subject so relentlessly if we hadn't reached the post office just then. She stamped her two envelopes and stuck them in the chute without a second glance, but I was vaguely conscious that she kept her gaze riveted on the manila envelope while I inserted return postage, affixed the outer stamps and sealed the envelope.

It's easy to look back now and say that I was stupid, that I should have known something was up. But what? What possible connection with the mystery could I assign to Sandra's voluntary assistance? She was imposing on me to the extent of asking to share my room at night. This, I thought, was her gesture of re-payment.

"That was a break for me," I said as I turned Adam's car once more toward home. "How much would you charge to take the job on permanently?"

"I'll be glad to help you while you're here," she said seriously. "But I couldn't take any pay."

"I was only joking. I can't afford a secretary—wouldn't you know what

Candidates Outline Their Qualifications as Women Voters Stage Open Meeting

A former governor of Wisconsin, two present members and a former member of the assembly, an Appleton school teacher speaking in behalf of her father's candidacy for governor, and a number of other candidates for public office appeared at a candidates' meeting last night at the city hall under auspices of Appleton League of Women Voters. The talks, limited to 10 minutes for candidates and 5 minutes for representatives, went all the way from a simple statement of qualifications and platform through resumes of public records to attacks on opponents' records and accomplishments.

Francis E. McGovern, Democratic candidate for governor, pointed to his record as governor of Wisconsin during which time he said the first workmen's compensation act in the country was put into effect, the first industrial commission in the country was established, first mothers' pension law was passed. Also enacted during his regime, he said, were first eugenics law, penal reform, creation of an industrial board to establish vocational schools with state aid, the first corrupt practices act, establishment of a rural credit association and systematic state aid to farmers and the first successful income tax law. He characterized that period as one of constructive legislation, non-partisan and non-political.

Gerhard A. Hagedorn, also Democratic candidate for governor, promised that if elected he would institute an investigation of the public service commission, and he expressed himself as being in favor of substantial old age pensions, and any legislation benefiting the small business man.

Honesty of purpose and the courage of his convictions were the qualifications listed by Louis Bonini, candidate for the assembly from the first district of Outagamie county on the Democratic ticket. He pointed to his record as a county board supervisor, in particular where he acted as chairman of a committee to investigate business practices in the county. He spoke of the county airport project and stated that he was chairman of the radio police control and was instrumental in selling the plan to other counties, was chairman of the committee which settled the milk strike, and he listed other committees on which he served the county.

Characterizing himself as "about the only Democrat that stayed on the Democratic ticket," William Rohan, Kaukauna, formerly assemblyman from the second district who is seeking a return to that office this year, injected a note of humor into the proceedings with his story of how the Department of Markets brought him into court for selling "two quarts of milk per night." He spoke of his bill for a $5 car license fee which he presented to the legislature in 1937 and said that "the people who were paying only $1 for their license" had defeated its passage, and he added that he now wants a $2 license fee, hoping to get it nearer to his opponents' level.

Defends Cigaret Tax
William Gantner, mayor of Kaukauna and assemblyman from the second district of Outagamie county who is seeking the state senate on the Republican ticket, pointed to his record as a self-made man, stating that he began work shoveling coal at the age of 11 years and advanced himself until he became auditor for a large firm. He defended the Wisconsin cigarette tax, saying that people should pay it gladly since the money derived from it goes to the blind, dependent and aged. He added that there is no tax on cigars because if such a tax were imposed the tobacco industry in Wisconsin would fail.

Basing his plea for reelection on his experience of the last four years, Mark Calum, Republican assemblyman from the first district, told his audience that his experience has given him a standing in the legislature and that he knows what to do and when to do it. The youngest member of the legislature, he added that in the 1939 session he was the only member who was chairman of two committees and a member of four committees. His guiding motive, he said, has been trying to save the taxpayers' money, and he spoke of the present administration's work in eliminating all unnecessary departments in the state which had no purpose or direction. The motor vehicle department was consolidated and employees eliminated, overlapping in the public welfare department was done away with, and the department of taxation was reorganized, he said, pointing to a saving of over $2,000,000 for the laboring man.

Making only one promise, namely, that he will listen to any constituent or voter in the state about any problem and then use his free and honest judgment on any issue, Rolland Kuckuk, Republican candidate for the assembly from the first district, pointed out that a legislator must have a judicial attitude for the benefit of all people of the state first, and for his own district next. He quoted the Young Republican Creed which includes in its tenets the teaching of Americanism, advocates better values at lower cost, collective bargaining, stimulating a demand for farm products, and the promotion of peace.

Teacher Talks
Miss Peggy Robinson, a teacher in Appleton schools, spoke on behalf of the candidacy of her father, Dr. James K. Robinson of Milwaukee for the Republican nomination for governor. A practicing dentist, Dr. Robinson is a graduate of the University of Michigan and served as an army dentist during the World War. His platform, Miss Robinson said, among other things, calls for a reduced and balanced budget, pensions without pauperism, a profitable milk price for the farmer, repeal of the cigarette tax, reinstatement of the inheritance tax cut, and of bus license fees to their previous level, institution of a Wisconsin "Hatch" act to prevent state employees from political activity on state time and money, and repeal of the law establishing the research department headed by August Frey. He is opposed, she said, to cuts in teachers' salaries and to higher fees in the state teachers' colleges and university.

A telegram was read from Governor Julius P. Heil who was unable to attend the meeting.

Harry Jack, Progressive candidate for the state senate, pointed to his association with co-operatives and his chairmanship of the state board of agriculture under Governor LaFollette, and said that the present Heil regime adopted the program of the latter board in its entirety. He challenged the constitutionality of the milk control law, stating that in his opinion milk going into cheese factories and creameries should be of the same high quality and bring a price comparable to that going into milk bottles. He favors conservation of natural resources, he said, and the right to collective bargaining. He expressed himself in favor of the Rural Electrification Administration because it provides service at a reasonable cost, and of a tax system based on the ability to pay, especially income tax.

AT TABERNACLE — The Rev. Raymond Kowles, Wuchow, South China, will open a series of missionary conferences at the Christian and Missionary Alliance Tabernacle at 7:45 this evening to continue the rest of the week. He will speak about China and display tribal ornaments and musical instruments and costumes.

George C. Egan, Kaukauna, Progressive candidate for state senator, stated that he has been in business for 22 years, and served in the Mexican and World wars, spending 13 months in France. He pledged that no person or body would control his vote, if elected, and he promised to use common sense in weighing bills before voting on them.

Pledges Economy
His record as a member of Appleton city council was quoted by Lawrence McGillan, Progressive candidate for assemblyman from the first district of Outagamie county, who promised to save the people money if elected. He has worked since he was 16 years of age, he said, and in general carries on the same political beliefs as his father, the late Robert F. McGillan.

Roland Day, chairman of the Alfonsi for Governor Youth committee, representing Paul R. Alfonsi, Progressive candidate for governor, pointed to the latter's record in the assembly for the last eight years, as Progressive floor leader in 1935 and 1939 and speaker in 1937. He fought for civil service and to extend the merit system, Day said, and opposed the reorganization of state government and the Cuthin-Peterson bill. As a former teacher Alfonsi has fought for education, Day said, charging that the Heil administration's cuts in appropriations have made it more difficult for young people to get an education. He accused the present administration of taking the tax burden off the "boys of the Milwaukee Athletic club" and added that Alfonsi favors taxation based on the ability to pay.

Speaking for her husband, Henry Gunderson, Portage, Progressive candidate for governor, Mrs. Gunderson stated that her husband is concerned about aid for public schools, pointing out that in Adams county the number of schools has been decreased from 85 to 27. She urged women to go to the polls to aid the schools.

A letter was read from Robert M.

Miss Louise Rossmessl Wed at St. Joseph Church

Choosing her parents' twenty-ninth wedding anniversary for her own wedding day, Miss Louise Rossmessl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Rossmessl, 821 W. Third street, became the bride of Edward Mielinski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Mielinski, 714 Grignon street, Kaukauna, in a ceremony performed at 9 o'clock this morning at St. Joseph's church by the Rev. Father Cyprian, O.M. Cap.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and attended by her sister, Miss Betty Rossmessl. Joseph Mielinski, Kaukauna, brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and John Rossmessl, brother of the bride, and Sherman Bronstad were ushers. Prof. A. J. Theiss played the organ, and Miss Agnes Schiebler sang "Ave Maria," "O Beautiful Mother" and "All for the Name of Jesus."

A wedding breakfast at the Colonial Wonder-Bar was followed by a reception from 2 to 4 o'clock this afternoon at the home of the bride's parents.

When they return from a trip to Chicago and St. Louis, Mo., Mr. and Mrs. Mielinski will reside on W. Sixth street, Appleton. The bridegroom, who attended George's institute of Technology, is employed in the office of the Thilmany Pulp and Paper company, Kaukauna. His bride, a graduate of the nurses' training course at St. Mary hospital, Green Bay, has been doing private duty nursing.

The waning interest in golf which the end of the season usually brings, together with sporadic showers during the morning, cut the ladies' golf day attendance Monday at North Shore Golf club to 20. Because of the weather no regular golf events were played. Mrs. C. B. Rich, Green Bay, was chairman of the day's program. Mrs. Leo Schubart and Mrs. Dan Hardt, Neenah, are the co-chairmen for the ladies' day luncheon and bridge Wednesday at the club.

Twenty-four young women attended the first fall meeting of the Yacettes, auxiliary to the Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce, Monday evening at Alicia park. The organization's next meeting will take place Oct. 7.

Riverview Country club's weekly buffet supper and contract bridge games will be held this week on Wednesday night instead of Friday. Mark Catlin, Jr., again will be in charge of the bridge games. On the committee with him are Mrs. E. D. Beals and Mrs. Hugh Strange, Neenah.

GOP Wins at Polls in Maine

were on the tickets in all except Louisiana.

The states holding primaries today were: Arizona, Colorado, Louisiana, Michigan, Minnesota, New Hampshire, Vermont and Washington.

Arizona had a wide-open race for the designation of Democratic presidential electors, with Willkie Democrats challenging three different sets of electors supporting Roosevelt. Failure of the Democrats to elect the nominating petitions for electors left the issue to be decided by write-in votes. A victory for the Willkie slate would pledge the electors to cast Arizona's votes for him even though he might not carry the state in November.

Louisiana's balloting carried echoes of the battle which ousted Huey P. Long's political dynasty, with Governor Sam H. Jones' appealing for the defeat of the state's entire delegation in the house of representatives. Most of the eight incumbents campaigned for Earl K. Long in his unsuccessful effort last winter to defeat Jones and continue as governor.

In Minnesota's primary, Senator Shipstead, Farmer-Laborite for 18 years who left his party this summer, was seeking the Republican senatorial nomination in a four-man race. Members of the Farmer-Labor party have been urged by their leaders not to desert party ranks to vote for Shipstead.

Another Minnesota contest found Governor Harold E. Stassen, Republican national convention keynoter, seeking re-nomination, with two opponents.

Mayor Jensen Names Roy Hela To Park Board

Aldermen Discuss Gambling Charges At Jefferson Park

Menasha—Roy Hela, 388 Nassau street, foreman at the Gilbert Paper company, was appointed to the Menasha park board by Mayor W. H. Jensen at a special council meeting Monday night. The appointment completes representation of all wards on the board.

Hela succeeds James Whalen who resigned because he was unable to attend park board meetings regularly. Morgan VanderHyden was appointed to the post at the regular council session last week but declined because of personal business.

Charges of gambling at Jefferson park were reviewed by the aldermen. Ray Keefe said that he had received protests because of gambling at the park in which $60 and more changed hands with an audience of small children about. A church group wanted to use the table used by the gamblers at a recent picnic and was refused, he said he was told. Members of the group asked Keefe if the park was for football practice, for gambling or for picnic use.

Mayor Jensen objected strenuously to the gambling and said that when a road is constructed into the park the police can patrol it better.

The aldermen and mayor agreed that the problem was one for the park board. Alderman John R. Scamlin suggested that the board prepare regulations for use of the park with provisions to punish offenders.

Mayor Jensen pointed out that he had nothing to do with ordering St. Mary's High school football squad off Jefferson park but that it was a park board project. Traffic Officer Lawrence Jakowski told the council that he had received instructions from Frank Beck of the park board to order the squad off. Jakowski went to the mayor before ordering the squad off but Jensen had nothing to do with the orders, it was said.

Use Ball Park

The council agreed that the action probably was hasty. The park board since has made arrangements for the Zephyrs to use part of the baseball park for practice and the squad did not lose a day of drill.

Mayor Jensen objected to heavy trucks and cars driving on the park lawn, pointing out that they did more damage than the football squad. He declared that a road is necessary in the park. Walter O'Brien said that part of the fault was lack of cooperation of the police as they were told to break up the gambling but chased the football squad away. Ray Keefe warned that the city may lose permission to use the greens if children are not kept off the railroad boxcars.

William Karrow asked that the city sell a strip of land at Oak and Ahnaip streets and use the receipts to repair the pavilion at Smith park. Bids are returnable Oct. 15. The pavilion was built in 1901 but has not been used recently. Karrow and Keapock said that the building could be repaired easily but Mayor Jensen said it would cost at least $2,000.

Alderman Walter O'Brien objected to having the funds earmarked for Smith park, declaring that he has been trying for 3 years to have rest rooms constructed at Jefferson park. The council decided to set the funds aside for park building improvement without specifying definitely which parks.

Will Get Prices

The park board is to secure prices on the pavilion repair and rest rooms at Jefferson park with the possibility that the work may be included in the 1941 budget. The city attorney was instructed to determine what other land the city holds which may be offered for sale. Keapock pointed out that sale of such land would increase the tax rolls.

A conference between the street committee and property owners involved in the opening of the Main street alley was ordered. Mrs. A. Cook, Neenah, owns 10 feet of land needed for the alley. She refuses to set a price unless the driveway next to her property onto the alley is closed. The driveway is owned jointly by Mrs. Cook, Mrs. Tillie Lenz and the Grove estate. If no agreement is reached, the city will condemn. Storm sewer construction in the alley will start in November.

Soot complaints in the Third ward chiefly because of the brewery, were referred to Third ward aldermen. Both said that brewery officials will cooperate. The street committee will ask the Gibson and Wheeler firms to remove their gas pumps, used for their own vehicles only, from the Main street curb to provide more parking space.

Zephyr Team Will Open 1940 Season Sunday

St. Benedict High of Milwaukee Will Play Under Menasha Lights

Menasha—St. Mary's High school gridders will open their 1940 season Sunday night against St. Benedict the Moor High school, a Milwaukee Negro high school, under the lights at Butte des Morts field.

The Zephyrs will have only two weeks of preparation under the direction of two new coaches, Fred Trish and Joseph Kores, at game time. However, the coaches have over a dozen lettermen available. They are strong in line candidates but the chief problem has been to find a backfield combination.

The Zephyrs had three scrimmage sessions in their first week of drill. The line probably will be one of the biggest in the history of the school. Norbert Giesen has been shifted from tackle to center. Two other veterans are available for the tackle posts, Wilbur Poth and Virgil Ling-nofski. The guards also are two veterans, Robert Birling and Sylvester Burghard.

The ends also have several experienced candidates. Leo Miller and Tom Verbrick alternated at end last year while two Dorzevels also are candidates for end posts.

Hoks at Quarter

Don Hoks is leading the quarterback contingent because of an edge in experience last year. Farnham Johnson, who worked at end and right half last season, has been shifted to fullback. Frank Staniek is a reserve quarterback while either backfield candidates include Len Schipferling, Al Taves, Emmet Hoks, Jerome Lanx, and James Brethauer.

Players who gained some experience in games last year include George Enders, Richard Laemmrich, Norbert Bayer, Frank Albert, and Tom Kolanski. Several players also are expected to develop out of last year's freshman squad while Albert Kobinsky, a freshman, is being used at a tackle on the varsity squad.

Following the home opener Sunday night, the Zephyrs will travel to Keshena to meet the St. Joseph Indian school team in a Fox Valley Catholic conference game. Friday night, Sept. 27, the Zephyrs will oppose the St. Norbert college high school team in another conference game.

New London of the Northeastern Wisconsin conference will meet the Zephyrs at Butte des Morts field Friday night, Oct. 4. The Zephyrs will conclude their conference season against St. John's High school at Little Chute Sunday, Oct. 13.

The St. Mary Eleven will meet its Twin City rivals at Neenah Saturday, Oct. 19. The final home game will be Edgewood academy here from Madison Friday night, Oct. 25. The season will close Monday Nov. 11, with the Zephyrs at Kaukauna.

The Zephyrs have won the Fox Valley Catholic conference football championship for the last three years. Last year they had one touchdown scored against them in three conference games. In non-conference games they defeated Neenah for the first time since 1934 but lost four other tilts. Edgewood and New London scored one-point victories while Kaukauna, Northeastern Wisconsin conference champions the last two years, scored a 26 to 6 victory.

Comedy Acts Will Feature Program of Hunters Party

Neenah—The program for the Twin City Rod and Gun club's first annual Hunter's party at 7:30 Friday evening at the Menasha High school auditorium was announced today by James H. Kimberly and Earl Laux, chairmen.

Entertainment will get underway with a half hour concert by the Neenah Hill Bill band, and a comedy hunting skill produced by members of the club will be followed by an act, George Fiedler and his trick dog Pal. Magic stunts and two sound pictures, "Dog Field Trials" and "Deer Hunting in Michigan" will precede a 40-minute Milwaukee vaudeville act. Awards will be presented during intermissions.

George Gardner, publicity agent, reported that the show will be a sellout, for it is expected that a 1,000 tickets will be sold before Friday.

Denies Violation of Menasha Zoning Law

Menasha—Arnold Springborn, 50, 215 Prospect street, Menasha, pleaded not guilty of operating a foundry in a residential district in violation of the zoning ordinance on arraignment before Justice of the Peace Arthur J. Ales this morning. Trial was set for 10 o'clock Wednesday morning. K. Ellingboe, city building and plumbing inspector, signed the complaint.

Reports Need For Addition To High School

Neenah Board Will Study Survey Before Acting on Matter

Neenah—A report indicating the need for an addition to Neenah High school was presented by Superintendent C. F. Hedges to the board of education at a meeting last night at the high school. The board decided to study the survey before discussing it.

The resignation of Miss Elizabeth Bloodgood, Roosevelt school third grade teacher, was accepted, and contracts with Mrs. Irene B. Evans, kindergarten teacher, and Miss Marian L. Polk, fourth grade teacher were approved.

A proposed program of studies for the high school submitted by the superintendent was approved. The superintendent reported that the grade school enrollment totaled 1,259 pupils, 22 less than last year and the high school enrollment amounted to 776, 20 more than the previous year.

The board authorized purchase of five tablet arm chairs for the high school and a typewriter for commercial dictaphone work. Principal J. H. Holzman and Mrs. Laura Ulery, grade school supervisor, were authorized to attend the state superintendent and schoolmen's conference at Madison Sept. 26 and 27.

Seek Recognition Of Outboard Marks At Races Sunday

Menasha—Official recognition of the speed marks set by the outboard motorboat racers Sunday at Jefferson park will be sought by officials of the Menasha Elks club who sponsored the races. Times in all heats of the class A, B, C and D races exceeded the officially recognized National Boating association records.

The course will be surveyed again to make certain that it is official and affidavits of the speeds will be sent to the association. The course, with three buoys at one end and a single buoy at the other, was recognized as a fast one by the drivers.

The record in class A is 44.354 miles an hour while the mark set Sunday was 47.418 in the fastest heat. The fastest time in class B was 53.097 miles while the recognized mark is 51.423 miles. Although Dick Hansen, Menasha, won the second heat of class B, the time was slower than in the first heat and the mark of Carl Williams will be sent for recognition. Hansen also bettered the old record in winning the second heat of class B.

In class C the record was exceeded by nearly 2 miles an hour. The recognized NBA record is 55.419 miles while the mark set Sunday by Bob Meyer, Chicago, was 57.325. Bob Guttman, Manitowish, also exceeded the recognized class F mark. His best speed was 58.445 miles an hour while the NBA record is 58.594 miles.

Because the course is so fast, members of the Elks club expect a larger entry in the races next year.

Neenah Engages 'Pied Piper' to Rid Dump of Rats

Neenah—City officials informed representatives from the town of Menasha at a meeting last night at the city hall that the council is considering construction of a garbage incinerator.

The meeting was the result of a recent notice from the town's board of health that if Neenah didn't abandon its garbage dumping grounds within 20 days in the town of Menasha, legal proceedings against the city would be taken.

Mayor Edwin A. Kalfahs, Clerk H. S. Zemlock, Attorney John W. O'Leary and Alderman Carl Loehning told town officials that a survey is being made to determine whether construction of an incinerator jointly with Menasha at the sewer disposal plant is feasible and that the city now is waiting for a report from the sewerage commission.

In the meantime, city officials reported a "Pied Piper" from Oshkosh has been secured and is exterminating the rats at the dump. The attendant also has been instructed to keep the grounds in proper order.

Representing the town were Arnold Werth, chairman, Simon Wilz, H. Ehlers and Harvey Grundemann, members of the board of health.

like a different person while she was here—read to her, played games with her, never left her side. I wouldn't have thought she had a soft spot, but I guess that kid is it."

"Where does the child live?" Gerald asked, dropping for a moment his idiotic posturing.

"In New York, I think she said. Her brother's child."

"There! That proves it! I told you I had a theory. Ten to one Felicia lived in or near New York herself. Some of those terrible gangsters that you have over here—we're so much more clever about these things in dear old blighty—took it into their heads to bounce off her husband because he knew too much about them, and then they got fears of the legal hex."

"No, Gerald, don't. The poor kid is lanky and her hair is like black string. And she wears glasses—she's nearly blind. Felicia had her out at the beach one day—a happy little thing, about six. I talked to her, and she told me cheerfully that her Aunt Felicia was going to take her to Chicago the next day to see a new doctor who would make her eyes strong. Felicia told me privately that the Chicago specialist was a sort of last hope—they weren't counting too heavily on the results of the examination. And apparently there was nothing he could do, for Felicia never mentioned the subject again, and I didn't like to bring it up. She brought the child back for a few days before she shipped her home, but they didn't come out to the beach again—kept indoors during the day. I saw them out walking one evening, and they both looked pretty subdued. Poor Felicia was Hollywood—the latest fact that Dorothy Lamour's latest release, "Typhoon," is packing theatres while more ambitious productions play to half empty houses, confirms my belief that Hollywood, in its passion for logic often forgets that Mr. and Mrs. Public's one interest is entertainment.

Most of our local critics re-acted by making unkind remarks about "Typhoon." Boiled this: "It isn't unbelievable."

Of course it isn't its director, Louis King, didn't intend that it should be. He happened to have brains enough to see that Dorothy Lamour was being ruled by the studio effort to vest South Sea romances with credibility. "Let's treat the South Seas as the average fan pictures them in his mind—as a romantic Utopia," he argued, and proceeded to chuck logic out the nearest window and screen a very entertaining day dream. As a result, the fans were pleased, the studio is reaping a nice profit, and Dorothy Lamour, who was suffering from lack of imagination on the part of her bosses, is decidedly on the upbeat again. Also, a good many Hollywood scribes are wearing red faces.

In passing, I want to make one more observation about—and to the curious Dottie. If she's smart, she'll pay no attention to wise-aces who ridicule her display of epidemic. The world's in a topsy-turvy condition, but we haven't yet reached the point of objecting to such scenery as she affords.

IDOL CHATTER: It isn't so bad to be double-chinned if you can imitate Cary Grant—and wear them horizontally. In a word description of Milton Berle: pun-gent. If you see a lanky window shopper gazing wistfully at a display of antique firearms, give a second glance—he's probably Henry Fonda, W. C. Fields, who likes movie scenes, has always thought a lot of stiffs, too. Whenever I picture Barbara Fritchman leaning out of that window to utter her famous defiance, I always endow her with the features of Edna May Oliver.

CONFIDENTIAL COMMUNIQUE: To Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Glacy (Arleen Whalen): When you arrive at those first marital misunderstandings—and they're bound to happen—come to me and let me remind you how solemnly and trustingly you looked at each other as you took your wedding vows at Las Vegas. . . . Constance Bennett: You're making yourself a lot of new friends through your wholehearted work in behalf of war relief. People didn't think you had it in you.

CUFF NOTES: Rita Hayworth, who couldn't get a New York job three years ago, has nixed an offer of PLENTY to co-star in a film musical with Jack Haley. . . . Wot's this about Don Briggs confiding to friends at Grace Hayes Lodge that he and Tamara may alter-trick? . . . Allan Jones, with a 273 pound marlin swordfish to his credit, looks like a real threat in Southern Cal's $10,000 Fishing Derby. . . . John Halliday, who sailed for his Hawaiian Island "Utopia" the other day, instructed his agent to nix all screen offers for at least a year.

Carl Bols, now playing in MGM's "Bittersweet," tells an amusing story about his first exchange with Director W. S. Van Dyke. Getting a couple of days off during the first week's shooting, Bols went to Catalina and had so good a time that he wired Van Dyke: "Wonderful here. Would like to stay two days longer." Back came this tart rejoinder: "Wonderful everywhere. Come back now!"

Fight Against Bogus Money Shows Results

Secret Service Head Says Educational Campaign Effective

Milwaukee—(P)—Education against crime is intelligent prevention under police protection, Frank J. Wilson, chief of the United States secret service, told the annual convention of the international Association of Chiefs of Police today.

Explaining the secret service drive against counterfeit, Wilson said that the "know your money" motion picture campaign had reduced the acceptance of bogus money 19 1/2 per cent during the first eight months of this year.

From 1933 to 1937 the public lost an average of $1,000,000 annually through acceptance of counterfeit money, Wilson said. From January to September, the loss has been cut to $130,000.

"A well-informed and educated citizen makes a tougher victim than an ignorant one," Wilson declared. "Our campaign has proved emphatically that a major crime may be fought more successfully through education than through the age-old method of prosecution and imprisonment."

Announcing a new program against check forgers, Wilson said: "The real root of the evil lies not in the check passer, but in the carelessness or ignorance of persons who accept worthless checks."

"American business men and women can be taught what is proper identification of check endorser and the importance of demanding it. When this is done, the annual loss of many millions will be cut substantially."

State Inheritance Taxes Cut $52,000 By Revision of Laws

Madison—(P)—State inheritance taxes have been reduced $52,371.52 through revision of the laws enacted by the 1939 legislature. Tax Commissioner Elmer Barlow reported today.

The report covered the period from Jan. 1 to Aug. 31, 1940, during which the state collected approximately $2,000,000 in inheritance levies.

The statute changing the exemptions allowed brothers and sisters participating in the division of estates caused a reduction of $30,238.40 in normal taxes and $11,771.52 in emergency taxes. Barlow said. The number of estates thus affected was 159.

The law allowing deduction of federal taxes applied to eight estates with a reduction of $1,047.40 in normal taxes and $314.21 in emergency levies. Barlow said.

The computations did not include several large estates on which final taxes have not been determined.

German Planes Bomb English Military Camp

London—(P)—The admiralty announced that its dive bombers attacked a German military camp yesterday near Bergen in Norway and damaged two German supply ships along the Norwegian coast.

Reconnaissance flights over the Norwegian coast, it said, confirmed that two of the three tanks of the oil depot at Dovvik, attacked by naval bombers Aug. 8, were destroyed, while the third tank and pipelines were damaged.

Ripon Rated as the Team to Beat For Midwest Conference Grid Title

On paper, all teams in the well-balanced Midwest conference football race will be stronger than a year ago with the exception of Beloit but Coach Bud Butler may have enough under the paper to startle them all. Within a week after practice starts the form chart may have to be altered but at present writing Ripon is the standard candidate to take the title. Co-champions last season, the Redmen, coached by Carl Doehling, have lost nothing but an easily replaced lineman and they still are led by the greatest competitor in the conference in Steve Kramar. Furthermore, Ripon's six game conference schedule does not call for games with either Knox or Grinnell, ranked next in line for the championship.

Knox, co-champion in 1939, has lost Al Christiansen, great all-around back. He called signals, passed, and was the best punter in the conference. His understudy, Harlan, also was a senior so Coach Harold Turner is faced with this backfield replacement. Chuck Elsner, strong center, also will be missing. But Turner will have 14 lettermen led by Jack Rule, fullback, and Russ Petrick, end, as co-captains. Any coach with more than a dozen lettermen from a championship team needs little sympathy.

Grinnell Has New Coach — Grinnell will be hepped up in its first year under a new coach, Ben Douglas, who established a remarkable record during six years at Maplewood, Missouri. All-conference center, Howard Grimes, has graduated but Harry Barker at fullback will be a standout. The Pioneers also have but six league games, ducking Ripon and Monmouth.

Placed close behind, if not on a par with Siwash and Grinnell, must be Coe and Carleton. Coe rates highly because it is consistently good and the Carlin because of material. Tess Leins, a tackle, will captain the Kshawk squad of about 30 men including seven letter winners. Veteran Coach Moray Eby is faced with replacing three backfield men, the center and both ends. The rest of the line is expected to show sophomore and junior material. The loss of Ralph Eshom, regular center, and Ray Johnson, back, is costly. The Orange City, Iowa, brother combination of Donald and Robert Dunlop will be back. Coe will be lighter than usual this year. It also has the doubtful advantage of playing every member of the league which gives it a chance to make up for a possible loss. Coach Wally Hass has 50 men to work with at Carleton and most of his competitors would trade two of their best for his captain, Dick Raiter. This light but elusive back was named best man in the conference as a junior last fall. Hass undoubtedly will shift a few of his twelve lettermen around to fill vacancies in the line. Of the fourteen lettermen lost from last year's team only one was a backfield player.

Field Trials Carded At Medina Marsh; Expect Big Entry — Neenah—"Meat dogs" are just as welcome as the speedy "horizon chasers" of the big circuits, Don Kennedy stated today, in describing the five stakes to be run next Saturday and Sunday at the Northwestern Wisconsin Kennel club bird dog field trials on Medina marsh near Neenah.

Kennedy, who is field trial secretary, believes that the event should attract many Fox valley hunting dogs that are just in the early stages of training, as many of the stakes were arranged with that in mind. He said that the trials present an ideal opportunity just one week ahead of the bird season. The Pioneers also have but six league games, ducking Ripon and Monmouth.

Young dogs, old dogs, shooting dogs, and experienced field triers, are all provided for in the stakes which he described. The puppy stake is for pups born after May 1, 1939. It will be run in 20 minute heats, and is for amateurs only. The non-winners stake, also for amateurs, and with the same length heats, is for any dog that has never placed first in a bird dog trial. A derby stake for any pointing dog born after Jan. 1, 1938 will be run in 20 minute heats. All three events are to be run off on Saturday, Sept. 14, starting promptly at 9 o'clock. Drawings for the order of running will be made Thursday night.

Two stakes are scheduled for Sunday, starting at the same time. They are the member shooting dog and the open all-age. Both will be run in 30 minute heats, and drawings will be made at the informal field trial banquet Saturday night in the Valley Inn hotel, Neenah, for which reservations must be made in advance. Address the secretary at Neenah.

Cedar Rapids Hopes To Break Jinx in Three Eye Playoff

Chicago —(7)— Pennant-winning Cedar Rapids of the Three Eye league begins a battle tonight to break a jinx which has held good against three recent league champions.

No pennant winner has won the Shaughnessy playoff since the postseason competition was installed in 1937.

Tonight Cedar Rapids, which finished in first place Sunday one game ahead of Decatur, opens its playoff bid at home against third-place Springfield and Decatur entertainers Evansville. The test calls for three out of five with the first three games in each series scheduled at Cedar Rapids and Decatur. Winners of the two series then meet for the playoff honor.

Clinton won the pennant in 1937, but Moline won the playoff. A year later Evansville won the flag, but Decatur captured the post-season honors. Last year Cedar Rapids finished in first place, but Springfield outlasted all others in the playoff.

Evansville fell before Springfield in the preliminary while Decatur was eliminating Cedar Rapids. Then Springfield won over Decatur, three games to two.

Philadelphia Eagles Arrive At Bay for Pro Loop Opener

Green Bay — Bert Bell's Philadelphia Eagles, the most improved team in the Eastern division of the National Football league, arrived here Monday afternoon to prepare for Sunday's game with the world champion Packers.

The Philadelphia, 33 strong, looked fit as a fiddle, as they moved into the Beaumont hotel which will be their headquarters for the Green Bay sojourn. The Eagles came out of last week's grueling 27-21 battle against the Chicago Bears without any serious injuries and all hands will be ready for action when the whistle blows Sunday at 2 p. m.

There is one possible change in the Eagles' battle front. Frank Emmons, recruit blocking back from Oregon, may be in the starting line up instead of Chuck Newton. Emmons played a whale of a game with the All Stars in Chicago against the Packers and Coach Bell figures his experience against the Bears will be a valuable asset.

Little Davey O'Brien, the spark plug of the Philadelphia attack, is all set to display his aerial wizardry against Green Bay. The Texas Christian product is heaving them better than ever this season and he nearly ran the Bears ragged with his overhead thrusts.

Coach Bell, who in his day was one of the greatest backfielders ever sport the red and blue of Pennsylvania, feels confident that his "birds" will fly high against the Packers. "We have a great team," said Bell, "Breaks of the game paved the way for our loss to the Bears. We looked every bit as good as the Halas' mountain-tains.

"We know Curly Lambeau has a super squad again this season but just the same I feel confident that we will give them plenty of trouble this Sunday. All we are praying now is a dry field so that Davey O'Brien can do his stuff. After your fans see 'Little' Davey, they are apt to forget all about Herber and Isbell. Watch what I say!"

Chaff'n Chatter

By Gordon H. McIntyre

Fox River Valley conference sports writers will gather at Oshkosh this evening to decide which team is going to win the conference football title. The session usually is marked by much crying about prospects which none of the scribes believe until the season gets underway, and by much denial on the part of Green Bay scribes that East or West or both look like "the goods." John Walter of the Green Bay Press-Gazette already has served notice that if anyone picks East it will be over his dead body.

There also will be a discussion of State league baseball and its effect on the various newspapers.

The baseball situation locally seems to have quieted down in the last few days but some of the shooting may start all over again Wednesday evening when the directors of the club meet. The St. Louis Browns have offered to aid the team next season and their proposition will be one of the matters on the docket.

Speaking of baseball, it's interesting to note that Minneapolis has selected six LaCrosse Blackhawks to report in the spring. They are pitchers Merv Henley, Hank Glor, Otis Clark, and Lorin Bain and second baseman Johnny Schroeder and outfielder Windy Hansch.

The Milwaukee Brewers have recalled eight of the lads with the Sheboygan club, Giles Knowles, Joe Pizzi, Joe Gasper, John Zydzowsky, Bill Kushta, Dean Miller, Al Erdman and Al Holtz. They probably will go to a Brewer Class B farm next season.

John Walter at Green Bay is trying to promote a new stand for the Bluejays. John says the park is the worst in the league. Maybe so, but hearing him admit it really is something.

Norman Carpenter, Gifford Nelson and Jerome "Mike" Powers of Green Bay West have enrolled in the University of Indiana. Mike was keen on Lawrence for a while.

Did you know that Ozark Ripley, outdoor writer who appeared at a Post-Crescent fishermen's party a few years ago, died last month at Chattanooga, Tenn., his home? He was a contributor to American Out-of-Doors, a column which runs in the Post-Crescent, and some of his articles will continue to appear for a month or more.

Heber Pelkey, Butte des Morts Golf club secretary, has kept a record of the worst spelling of the club's name. Recently he received a prize from a Manitowish golfer. It was Beawo Le Moar Country Club golf course. Still another "prize" was Buke de Morris Golf club.

'Dark Horse' Leads Way in Amateur Meet

Maurice McCarthy, Jr., Sets Early Pace in U. S. Golf Tourney

By GAYLE TALBOT

Mamaroneck, N. Y. —(7)— They said this was one amateur championship no "dark horse" would stick his nose into, because Winged Foot was too long and exacting a course for any except the real star shooters. Yet Maurice McCarthy Jr., of Cincinnati, was at the head of the procession when play resumed in the second qualifying round today.

McCarthy's 70 in yesterday's opening round caused a good deal of surprise, for nobody had given much thought to him. Maurice was a power a decade ago, but he made his last real bid in 1931, when he reached the semi-finals.

Of course, there was no guarantee the mid-west veteran would cause his firecracker young rivals to lose any sleep between now and week-end. This was only the start. The big field still faced another qualifying round today, and then six rousing rounds of match play.

Right on McCarthy's slowing heels, with 71's were Dick Chapman of Winged Foot, John Cree of Buffalo, and Tom Whiteway of Cleveland. They were the only others to take any liberties with Winged Foot's par of 72. Most scores ran so high, in fact, that it looked like a brace of 77's would gain admission tonight to the select group of 64 who will qualify for man-to-man combat.

Seven equalled par in their first tour of the course, including Marvin (Bud) Ward of Spokane, Wash., the defending champion and a 6-to-1 favorite to repeat. In the second group at 8-to-1, were Ray Billows of Poughkeepsie, Willie Turney of White Plains and Wilford Wehrle of Niles, Ill.

A total of 69 players shot 77 or better, which meant that some of the group needed to improve their iron play today if they wanted to continue.

As for Bing Crosby, the reigning sensation of the tournament, he virtually shot himself out of it with an 83. Between signing autographs in sand traps and listening to the bright patter from his gallery, the crooner, frankly, didn't have much chance.

McNeill Knocks Bobby Riggs Off His Net Throne

Alice Marble Wins 3rd Straight Title In National Tourney

BY BILL WHITE

New York —(7)— Bobby Riggs was greater in defeat today than he ever was in victory.

The little fellow had just seen his most prized possession, the national singles tennis championship trophy, handed to Don McNeill of Oklahoma City.

All afternoon the gallery of 7,500 at Forest Hills had applauded wildly when Don came off with a fine shot and only mildly when Bobby did.

He hadn't been a popular champion and he knew it. So when the presentation ceremony was over, and Don was surrounded with backslapping pats, Bobby walked through the gathering dusk away from the crowded press marquee, across the court on which he had been beaten, to a dressing room under the stands—and for the first time he was the popular kid he should be.

Applaud Riggs The crowd gave him a sincere burst of prolonged applause, partly because he had been beaten but more because they knew that in the past year of his reign he hadn't been treated as a champion should. And heart-sick as he was, he walked off in that Charley Chaplin manner of his with a big grin on his face.

McNeill should be a popular champion, for the forcing, dashing style of game he played yesterday in knocking Bobby off his throne. By scores of 4-6, 6-8, 6-3, 6-3, 7-5, is bound to be more popular than Riggs' purely defensive style.

Teamed with McNeill on the American tennis throne was blonde Alice Marble of Los Angeles. Making good her bid for her third straight national title—and the fourth in her brilliant career—she shelled Helen Hull Jacobs off the center court with a blazing 6-2, 6-3 beating.

LaCrosse Whips Fond du Lac, 3-2

By The Associated Press

The LaCrosse Blackhawks defeated the Fond du Lac Panthers 3-2 last night in the first game of the four-out-of-seven series for the president's cup and the championship of the Wisconsin State league.

Merv Henley limited the Panthers to four hits. Two of them homers by Joe Monahan, Fond du Lac first baseman.

The Blackhawks put across markers in the third, fourth and seventh innings on six hits off Rube Skronek.

Henley topped his pitching performance with a home run for the winners.

Columbus Loses Chance at Flag

By The Associated Press

The Kansas City Blues are still tops in the American association when the chips are down.

Bill Meyer's crew snuffed out the last slim pennant hopes of Columbus last night by defeating St. Paul 8 to 4, while the Birds were losing to Louisville, 4 to 0.

Columbus now is four and a half games back of the leaders with the season ending Sunday. The Red Birds only real chance was in the continued slump of the Blues who led Columbus by 14 and a half games early in August. Since then, however, the Blues have won only 19 while losing 20 and Columbus won 28 and lost nine.

Kansas City now appears to be a cinch unless it folds up completely in the last six days. The Blues combed three pitchers last night for 10 well-placed hits and were aided by four St. Paul errors.

Columbus fell before the effective pitching of Tot Pressnell, who gave them nine scattered hits and left 10 runners on the bases. The loss set the Birds only a game and a half ahead of Minneapolis, whose game with Milwaukee was postponed because of cold weather.

Aided by six errors, Indianapolis snowed Toledo under a 13 to 3 score, piling up eight runs in the second inning. Gil Brack smacked a three-run homer during this assault. The setback left Toledo in a virtual tie with Milwaukee for the cellar.

Wrestlers Reelect

Milwaukee —(7)— Col. Harry Landry, of Friar Point, Miss., was re-elected yesterday as president of the National Wrestling association.

The group is meeting here in conjunction with convention sessions of the National Boxing association. J. T. Joyner, Jr., Winston-Salem, N. C., was re-elected first vice president, and C. C. McCrary, Tulsa, Okla., secretary-treasurer.

Holy Name to Play Institute

FREEDOM HURLER—Probably the biggest reason the Freedom baseball team annexed second round honors in the County league was the hurling of Sherman Kapp, above. He kept opponents shackled at the plate and was able to win with almost a minimum number of runs by his mates. Last Sunday his club defeated Shiocton, 8 to 0, with Kapp allowing only two hits. (Post-Crescent Photo.)

The Institute of Paper Chemistry and the Holy Name softball teams will tangle for the Fraternal league championship Wednesday night at 8 o'clock at Spencer street field.

The Fraternal league employs the Shaughnessy play off system and via this method the Institute, the top team in the league in the regular standings, gained the championship bracket when it tripped the Eagles, the third place team, 4 to 2. The Holy Name, playing the role of a "glut killer," upset the Y. M. C. A. team, 6 to 1, in the biggest kick-over of the dope bucket this season. The Holy Name finished fourth in the final standings while the Y ended up in second place.

The Institute team, after several seasons of being a "stepping-stone" for the other teams, finally bit its stride this year. After taking the district American Softball Association championship, the "boys from the Institute" took second honors in the Fox River invitational tournament at Manitowish, losing to the Y. M. C. A. team, 6 to 1, in the biggest kick-over of the dope bucket this season. Last week the Institute team journeyed to Kenosha to participate in the state tournament. John Blick pitched for the Institute against the Racine Western Printers and allowed them but three scratch hits but went home without the bacon when Racine tallied a run on an error. The run won the ball game.

Strong Field Begins Play in Women's Meet

Betty Jameson and Marion Miley Knot For Medalist Honors

BY GAIL FOWLER

Seattle —(7)— A strong championship field swung into first round competition in the women's western amateur golf tournament at the Seattle golf club in 18-hole match play tests today.

The women opened the firing on the tough par 76 course yesterday with National Champion Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Tex., and Marion Miley of Lexington, Ky., twice a western champion, tying for medalist honors at 77 to lead the field of 153 players.

They were followed by husky long-hitting Dorothy Traug of San Francisco, who carded a 78; and Kay Pearson, Houston, Texas, Elizabeth Hicks, Long Beach, Calif., and Nancy Hurst, Portland, Ore., with 80s.

Six in Playoff — Six women had to play off for the three final places as they tied with 81s, and Mrs. J. Priebe, Seattle, 16-year-old Betty Jean Rucker, of Spokane, Wash., and Jane Goodwill of Minneapolis won the spots.

Today's feature match in the upper bracket paired Miss Traug, against Little Mary Moxel Wagner, Portland, the 1940 Pacific northwest women's champion.

Miss Jameson should hurdle Mrs. Carl Jones of Seattle in their match, while Miss Miley was favored to defeat Betty Frank of Seattle in their first rounder.

Today's pairings with qualifying pargoyolABBitt scores include:

Jeanne Cline, Bloomington, Ill. (81) versus Mrs. G. Frank Dunn, Seattle (85).

Nancy Hurst, Portland (80) versus Mary Agnes Wall, Menominee, Mich. (85).

Wendy Will Replace Haggerty at DePaul

Chicago —(7)— William Wendy, DePaul academy basketball coach, will handle the DePaul university squad during the 1940-41 season while Coach Tom Haggerty is taking a year's military training with the United States coast artillery.

Wendy's place as the academy coach will be filled by Bob Neul, who like Wendy is a former DePaul player star.

Cleveland Ousted From First Position

Tigers Lead; Yanks Game From the Top

BY JUDSON BAILEY

Associated Press Sports Writer

A battle royal for the American league pennant brought the four foremost teams into a finish fight today, but the collapsible Cleveland Indians couldn't wait.

They folded their tent yesterday and abandoned the lead to Detroit by dropping a 2-1 decision to the Chicago White Sox.

While all the other clubs in the circuit were idle, the Indians, underdog to gain an edge over their rivals by playing their "cousins," from whom they had won 16 out of 21 previous games. But Lefty Thornton Lee smothered them with four-hit pitching.

This was the seventh setback in eight games and forced the Indians out of first place for the first time since Aug. 11, leaving the clubs lined up like this:

	W.	L.	Pct.	Games To
Detroit	77	57	.575	— 20
Cleveland	76	57	.571	— 21

The fortunes of all four contenders were bound up in this week's schedule, which called for Cleveland to face the red hot Yankees in a two-game series today and tomorrow while the Detroit Tigers were defending their lead against the Red Sox. Then Thursday the world champions were down to start a three-game series in Detroit while Boston's still ambitious Sox open a similar series against the Tribe.

The Indians planned to lead with their ace, Bobby Feller, in an effort to stop the surge of the Yankees who had won 17 of their 21 games. If he couldn't, then Cleveland's chances were at the vanishing point.

The loss to Chicago yesterday was a back-breaking blow in itself. On the record the Indians had a right to expect to win. But the White Sox got to Harry Evers in the fourth for three singles that loaded the bases and unsettled him so much he forced in a run with a walk. Then in the seventh Skeeter Webb doubled and Mike Kreech singled for the other tally.

Until this point Lee had allowed only one hit and two were out in the seventh before Jeff Heath singled and Ray Mack doubled for Cleveland's only run.

There was a single game in the National league, too. The New York Giants battering the Brooklyn Dodgers 7-4. Hal Schumacher was eufied for three runs in the first inning by the Dodgers, but then he tightened up to pitch seven scoreless innings while his mates panned three Brooklyn pitchers for 14 hits and a victory.

Interleague games were on tap in both leagues today as the western clubs of the National league started their last circuit of the year and the American league spotlight was turned westward.

Washington to Take On Eastern All-Stars In Aerial Contest

Boston—(P)—A reputation of last year's sensational action appears likely tonight when the Eastern All-Star Collegians engage the Washington Redskins' National Professional football league forces at Fenway park.

The Redskins eked out a last-minute 20-17 win last year, thanks to the sharpshooting of slinger Sammy Baugh. That passing wizard, however, appears to have much stiffer competition this time in Ronnie Cahill, the recent Holy Cross star, and Lloyd Jones, of Penn State.

"Suede" Nelson decided to start his check troops, which include such backfield stars as Ed Boell, of New York university, Bomber Bill Hutchinson, late of Dartmouth, Vito Amans, the Boston college powerhouse, and Bill Transvich, who ran wild for Rutgers last season.

Cahill and Jones will be held on the sidelines until the time comes to put on the aerial pressure. When they go in action, they will be accompanied by such stellar receivers as Dick Harrison, also from Boston college, and Harley "Suede" Gustafson, the 1939 Pennsylvania captain.

The game is sponsored by the Glenscup-Pishon American Legion post.

The DOG OWNER and HIS DOG

BY ALLAN KERR

If you've never seen a bird dog on point, then most certainly, a thrill that is not duplicated anywhere in the realm of sports is awaiting your attention. Not everyone has the opportunity to witness the marvelous work of these super canines on an actual hunt, but most anyone can watch them perform at a field trial under hunting conditions.

Such an event is to be staged by the Northeastern Wisconsin Kennel club on Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 14-15, near Neenah. It is open to the public, and the only cost to spectators is the small charge for car parking. While this trial is run on game birds, chukars and pheasants, it differs from actual hunting in that the quarry isn't shot.

Here is a condensed outline of how most of the bird dog field trials operate:

The dogs are entered in the various stakes according to their age, potential ability and past performance. Roughly, you might say the puppy stake is for dogs one year old; the derby for dogs age two, the shooting dog stake for age six, judged alone hunting dog standards, rather than for speed and style; the non-winners for only those having never won a first place in any trial; and the open all-age for just what its name implies.

In the Neenah event the puppy and the non-winner stakes are for amateurs only. The shooting dog stake is for members only, and the starting fee includes a club membership. It may thus be seen that the pointing dog field trial is designed for the sport of everyone, not just those who happen to have top ranking dogs.

To prevent any favoritism as to running mates or condition of the courses at the various times of the day, a drawing is held to determine the pairings and the running order. A brace of does run together, but judging includes comparing the merits of all entries in the stake, not just the two under judgment at any one time.

After birds have been set out on the predetermined course, the judges order the first pair down. From this point the entire conduct of the trials is in the hands of the judges. They are most often mounted.

Big 10 Gridders Reporting Today

But Photographers Will Take Up Time; Start Work Tomorrow

Chicago—(P)—This is the day when the newspaper photographers get a real workout—the same day that scores of sturdy young men begin their bid for football fame at dozens of schools.

The athletes will turn out en masse today at Big Ten schools, Notre Dame and many other mid-west schools, but the initial day's work will be of the lightest sort.

The first day customarily is turned over to photographers. But it's a different story thereafter. Most of the coaches long since have advised the boys to report in good shape, fair warning that rough work is ahead.

As the Big Ten teams begin drills, the pre-season consensus seems to be that Ohio State rates a slight edge over the field and might repeat as the Big Ten champion. Close behind come Michigan and a rejuvenated Minnesota. Indiana, Northwestern and Iowa easily qualify as "dangerous" with Illinois, Wisconsin and Purdue bringing up the rear.

Notre Dame, facing top teams of many sections of the country, rates potentially with the best in the nation.

This season is the first in many years that the Western conference is operating with less than 10 football teams. Chicago having decided to abandon the sport. This strengthens the group generally since in recent years the Maroons were no worthy rival of other league teams. Now there are no setups in the nine-team circuit.

Madison—(P)—Fifty University of Wisconsin football candidates reported to head Coach Harry Stuhldreher today for their initial fall workout.

Equipment was issued yesterday. Until fall classes begin the Badgers will practice morning and afternoon, Stuhldreher said.

State Gathers Fishing Dope

Data to be Reply To Advocates of Thinning Out Lakes

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—The state conservation department is making progress in a research project which will be a reply to those who question the worth of the artificial fish propagation and planting program being carried on in Wisconsin, department spokesmen have disclosed.

Meanwhile G. E. Sprecher, assistant state superintendent of fisheries, commented upon a statement by David H. Thompson of the Illinois natural history survey, who told 200 scientists here last week that planting of large numbers of fish from hatcheries probably makes fishing poorer instead of better.

Thompson held that one of the best ways to increase the abundance of fish and the quality is to thin the lakes of fish regularly.

His remarks created wide interest here because the state conservation department annually plants more than a billion fish raised in hatcheries, and claims a world record in propagation and stocking.

The state department believes that instead of thinning out overstocked lakes and streams to provide better fishing, it is more practical, and for better fishing, to plant forage for the fish in such waters, Sprecher said.

He added that the state for several years has been thinning out the fish population of certain lakes, but here it is impossible to do so, the department supplied forage for the fish in populated lakes.

He said that panfish are customarily taken from the overpopulated northern Wisconsin lakes and transplanted in southern lakes, where there are fewer fish but heavier fishing.

In addition, millions of suckers and shiners are planted annually for forage purposes, he said.

Kaukauna Coach Seeks Linemen For New Squad

Last Year's Champions Have Veteran Backs, Good Ends, No Center

Kaukauna — If a veteran backfield and a fine pair of ends made up a football team Coach Paul E. Little would have little worry about retaining the Northeastern conference western division title produced by the undefeated eleven of 1939.

But the rules provide for a center, two guards and two tackles, and therein lies the problem. A lot of juggling will be necessary before Little fills these spots.

The graduation of Captain Leo last fall, makes that position one of the hardest to fill. Working out here have been John Vette, tackle last year, Jack Mainville and Calvin Spice.

Seek Guard Berths

No one has any claim on a regular guard job. Rivals for the position are Roland Hanson, Bill Dyer, Eugene Kelly and Earl Helf. At Kaukauna Little has been using Ray Hurst, a veteran from last season, and Spice and Vette, when the latter two haven't been working at center.

Alger and Rohan shape up as the best pair of wingmen in the loop. The janky Alger has put on weight and is set to close his high school career with his best season. Rohan has had two years experience as a regular.

Whenever Little wants a happier view of things he looks over his backfield. Karl Giordana, undoubtedly one of the best tackles in Wisconsin; Bob Danner, a plunging junior fullback just coming into his own; Joe Regenuss, blocking quarterback with three years of play behind him; George Steffens, Willis Riquette and Phelan Femal, speedy halfbacks with experience, are the reason.

Library Circulates

3,800 Books in August

Kaukauna — A book circulation of 3,807 for August was reported by Miss Bernice M. Happer, librarian, as the library board met last night. Of this number 1,267 were withdrawn by juvenile readers and 2,449 by adults. Thirty-two new books were added to the shelves, with 8,563 now available. New readers to register were 59, with 113 withdrawing, leaving a registration of 2,551. New books received last month included "Fun Encyclopedia," Harbin; "Columbus Day," Paulmier; "Master-At-Arms," Sabatini; "As I Remember Him," Zinsner; "An Ocean Heritage," Bassett; "Chalice," Doner; "There is Always Love," Loring; "Stars Still Shine," Larrimore; "Out of the Fog," Lincoln; "Brewer's Big Horses," Walker; "Wisconsin: Story of Progress," Rane; "Whiteoak Heritage," De La Roche; "Gabriel's Search," Lutes; "Lettie and the Law," Baldwin; "Honor Bound," Baldwin.

Receipts Decrease

Kaukauna—Postal receipts last month were $1,901.69, according to R. H. McCarty, postmaster. This is a slight decrease over the same month in 1939, McCarty said.

The Kaukauna office of the Appleton Post-Crescent is located in the Jules Merdes barbershop on Wisconsin avenue. William Dowling is the correspondent in charge and the telephone number is 107. Subscribers may call this number until 6:30 in the evening if their papers were not delivered.

Contract Bottleneck Is One That Nobody Expected

BY MORGAN M. BEATTY

Washington —(AP)—National defense headlines reflect the fact that the program is running head-on into the bottleneck nobody saw—the contract bottleneck.

Industrial transportation and raw material bottlenecks were largely foreseen, thanks to our World war experience.

The maze of post-war and post-depression laws are largely responsible for the contract bottleneck. Some of these are intended to protect public monies, others to protect workers, and still others to step up taxes on excess profits.

But regardless of the cause, they have bred into our defense program terms highly confusing to the layman—such as "bid in contracts," "negotiated contracts," "letters of intention," "contracts awarded," "contracts authorized," and so on. Here's a glossary explaining these terms:

Letter of Intention—It usually works like this: the army wants to order, say, 200 tanks costing more than $500,000. When an order calls for spending more than a half million, the National Defense Advisory commission steps in to keep it out of industrial bottlenecks.

The commission tells the army where it is possible to buy the tanks and the army goes ahead with the intricate business of arranging a contract for the tanks. Meanwhile, congress is working on legislation that may increase taxes on the tank builder, or change the rate of profit for sub-contractors. Therefore, neither the contractors nor the sub-contractors are willing to set a final price on the job.

So the contract is arranged right down to the point where it is ready to sign, but the price is left out. And the army gives the prospective contractor a letter of intention to go ahead with the work as soon as congress passes the laws it is working on, and provided a satisfactory price agreement can be reached. Officers usually regard these contracts as almost certain of execution. They speak of them as "in the works."

Contract Awarded—When you read a statement from the war department that such-and-such contracts have been awarded, you can put it down that everything is sealed, signed, and all but delivered. Congress has appropriated the money, the army or navy has agreed to pay it over, and the contractor has agreed to deliver the order on a specified date.

Contract Cleared—This is a term used exclusively by the National Defense Advisory commission. The commission itself has no power to sign contracts or spend money. But it does have the right and duty to advise the contracting government agency in making contracts. When it has given its advice, the commission announces it has cleared the contract. Thus billions in contracts may be cleared, without final awards from the Army or Navy. The term simply means as far as the commission is concerned, everything's OK. The army and navy prefer to execute bid-in contracts. They adver-

CO-STAR IN NEW COMEDY — Olivia DeHavilland and Jeffrey Lynn are co-starring in "My Love Came Back," refreshing comedy hit that opened a three day engagement at the Rio theater today. Co-featured on the same program is "The Secret Seven," mystery drama, with Florence Rice, Barton McLane, and Bruce Bennett in leading roles.

Relative of Kaukauna Man Describes Ocean Crossing

Kaukauna—Two large American flags, lighted at night, were all that stood between the ship American Legion, carrying 900 persons from countries of northern Europe to the safety of America, and the bottom of the North sea.

Thus Arne Hestoy, nephew of John Engerson, 258 W. Wisconsin avenue, describes the voyage. An American citizen, Hestoy had been living on the island of Hitteren, on the west coast of Norway between Trondheim, taken by the Germans at the outset of their invasion, and Andalsnes, used as a base by the British and French.

Working on the island for a cow testing association, sounds of cannonading rolled in across the sea in the early days of the war. Then he heard of the American Legion, last chance to come home. He bicycled to Oslo, got his papers, and journeyed north to Petsamo, where on Aug. 17 the American Legion shoved off.

No signs of the war were apparent until the ship had skirted North Cape, at the top of Norway, and set its course to pass the north of Scotland. Here the ship's passengers saw part of an English convoy, and observed British planes.

Some in the United States have charged the ship took the most dangerous course Hestoy believes this was true, saying at first the ship was heading to go above Iceland, and later the course was changed.

Deno Pigeon Wins in Race From Minnesota

Kaukauna—Averaging 938 yards per minute, a bird flown by Lester Deno won Kaukauna Pigeon club's 167-mile race Sunday from Winona, Minn.

Edward Ludke's pigeons placed second and third, averaging 653 and 651 yards per minute. Robert Bernard took fourth and fifth places, averaging 634 and 639 yards per minute. The race was for young birds.

Approaching Weddings Announced at Church

Little Chute — Announcement was made at St. John church Sunday of the approaching marriage of Miss Isabelle Driessen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Driessen, Little Chute, and Julius Pritzl, route 1, Appleton; and Miss Emily Kous, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kous, Little Chute, and Paul K. Ballard, route 3, Appleton.

George Weyenberg, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Weyenberg left Friday for Scotts Field, southern Illinois, where he has enlisted in the aviation corps.

Mrs. John Schampers has returned home from a week's visit with relatives in Waukegan, Ill.

Mrs. Chester Perkins and daughter have returned to their home in Lansing, Mich., after a several weeks visit at the home of Mrs. Arnold Gloudehans, Canal street.

St. John parochial school and St. John High school will open Wednesday for the school session.

Miss Marie Moder returned Sunday to Chicago after a two weeks visit at the home of Mrs. P. A. Gloudehans.

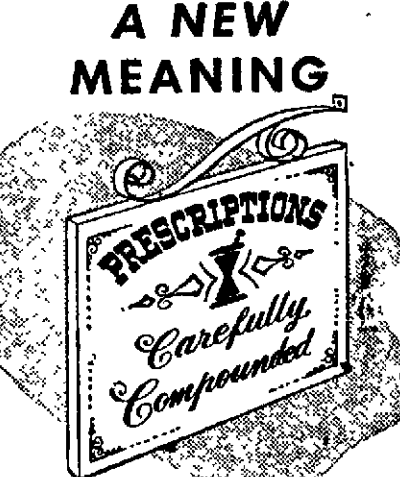

Mr. and Mrs. George Wynboom and family have moved into the Verkullen residence on E. Mill street.

navy which can be built before July 1, 1941.

So, while congress, the army and the navy work to clear up the laws, the intricate legal maze of contracts calls for equally intricate handling. Each step in contract making breeds a legal phrase. And you have the bottleneck nobody saw.

Spelvin Has Some Difficulty Understanding Son Dummy

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—George Spelvin, American, finds it more and more difficult to understand his oldest son, the one they call Dummy, who has very positive ideas, most of them in conflict with the old man's.

Last night, for example, Dummy said the whole trouble with the world was the greedy rich.

"All they think about," he said, "is their profits and having a good time."

"Well," the old man said, "and what do you think about?"

"Well," the Dummy said, "I don't think about profits because I am not an exploiter, but if you mean I like to tear around a little and lap of a saucer of today, why, what of it? After all, I am human and you don't live but only once."

"How long has it been since you had a job?" the old man asked. "About a year," the Dummy said, "and that is just the trouble. The dirty rich are so greedy that they won't give you a job, and I am a member of the lost generation without any market for my talents."

"What are your talents?" the old man asked.

"Salesman," said the Dummy. "But nobody has any money to spend because the rich aren't putting out, so I can't make a quarter."

"Dummy," the old man said, "you ought to know that the more goods they sell the more profits they get, so why would they want to close up business and cut off all those wages?"

"But you take my case, for instance," the Dummy said. "If they would pay me a decent salary I would spend the dough for a car and probably get married and even buy a house. As long as they pay me a good salary I will keep on sending it in, because, paw, you know I am a rough man on a dollar, and the first thing you know we will have prosperity again."

"But you said the whole trouble is that the rich are so crazy about profits," the old man said, "and now you say nobody has any dough to spend, so it is a cinch the rich can't make any profits not selling anything. Why don't you pull yourself together?"

"The rich put their money into tax-exempt bonds," said the Dummy. "Don't you ever listen to the radio? They buy government bonds and close up their business and live on the fat of the land without paying taxes."

"He Wouldn't Invest it; He'd Throw a Party"

"If you had a thousand bucks," the old man asked, "and there was no chance to make any profits on it in some kind of business and you might even lose the thousand bucks, what would you do with the dough? Would you invest it in a business or buy government bonds and be sure of your money and a little interest?"

"I wouldn't do either one if I had a thousand bucks," the Dummy said. "I would throw a party like I bet you never saw because, like I said, you only live once and it is here today and gone tomorrow. But I can understand why some common people would buy government bonds."

"Out of the mouths of Dummies," said George Spelvin, American.

Alfonsi Thinks Rights Of Labor are Menaced

Racine—If Republicans are returned to office for another term, organized labor in this state can expect a continuation of the drive to suppress its rights, Paul Alfonsi, candidate for the Progressive gubernatorial nomination, said last night. "The vicious Catlin and Peterson acts passed by the Republican controlled legislature have already gone a long way in the destruction of labor's right of self-organization and bargaining without interference or coercion from anyone," he said. "They have severely limited the right to strike and encouraged the use of strike-breakers by the unscrupulous employer."

Builds Violin From Tree in Own Yard

Aurora, Colo.—A H Kramer, a farmer, is proud of his farming ability but prouder still of his talent with musical instruments. "I am," he says, "the first man on record who planted a tree, watched it grow, saw it begin to die, cut it down and from the wood built a violin, which I'll enter in any contest of quality and tone." The tree was planted years ago. Kramer's children, now grown, played in the shade of it.

He had no expert knowledge of violins, although he played that instrument and others.

WHIRLPOOL NEBULA

Yesterday we spoke of the Great Nebula in Andromeda. It is one of the famous nebulae, and its size is hard to believe. After long and careful study, astronomers have figured the distance across it to be more than 350,000,000,000,000 miles!

If the fastest shell ever fired from a cannon could go such a distance, the time needed would be millions of years. Yet that nebula is only a patch of brightness as we see it.

The Whirlpool Nebula

from the earth. Astronomers did not know its size until after its distance was learned.

There are many other "patches of brightness" in the sky. They differ in size and in distance from the earth.

The Whirlpool Nebula is of spiral form. Like many other spiral nebulae, directly, and we can make out its figure clearly, with the help of a telescope.

The Whirlpool is near the end of the handle of the Big Dipper.

Its spiral form was first observed by Rosse, an Irish astronomer, in 1845. Rosse had the largest telescope of that time. It was 5 feet long and six feet in diameter.

Ninety-five years have passed since then and thousands of new spiral "nebulae" have been discovered. Sir James Jeans estimates that more than 2,000,000 of them are within range of present day telescopes.

The new 200-inch telescope, which is taking a long time to get ready, is expected to open the way to discovery of a vast number of nebulae never known before.

Spiral nebulae are made up largely of stars, or distant suns. Millions of stars are clustered in the same region of the sky, and together they make up an "island universe."

Almost all the stars which we see on a clear night are in our own universe. Those in the Milky Way are much "blurred together," and we cannot see many of them clearly without a telescope. Our own universe has hundreds of millions of stars.

What thoughts we may have when we think of the vast size of our universe, and of other universes which exist in distant space! Do some of those distant suns have planets traveling around them, just as our sun has planets?

Two Groups of Army Air Corps Fliers to Go to Puerto Rico

Washington—(P)—The war department moved Monday to strengthen the aerial defenses of the Panama canal by ordering two groups of the air corps to be stationed permanently at the new army base in Puerto Rico.

Medium and long-range bomber and reconnaissance planes stationed on the Caribbean island will be in a position to watch over hundreds of miles of the Atlantic approaches to the canal, the navy's vital life line.

War department officials said that the 24th air base group (less detachments already in Puerto Rico), would go to the outpost from its present station at Kelly Field, Texas, and that the 25th bombardment group would be transferred to Puerto Rico from its present station at Langley field, Virginia.

Events Beyond His Control Hamper Willkie's Campaign

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington—Everyone is volunteering reasons why the Willkie campaign has not come up to expectations. My unsolicited contribution is that Willkie is a victim of circumstances beyond his control.

Most of the criticism cancels itself out. Some say Willkie is too New Dealish, too much like Roosevelt, while others say he is too reactionary.

He is urged to go after, the independent Democratic vote that went to Roosevelt in 1932 and 1936, and then a lot of Republicans are hurt because he doesn't wrap himself more tightly in the robes of the grand old party. Grumblers are saying Willkie talks too much, but they would be the first to complain if he didn't show up on page one every day. Anything he does or fails to do is wrong. That's because his campaign isn't going well.

At the time Willkie was nominated in Philadelphia, when popular pressure was forcing him in over the frosty resistance of the delegates, Willkie said he was "in front of a trend." His trouble now is that the trend is in front of him.

A superman out of office is no match for a superman in office in these times. What chance has a candidate, with the best technique, against a president of the United States, in such a time as this, who goes about every week-end inspecting defenses and having photographs taken for the newspapers and newsreels displaying the smiling candidate in front of warships, flanked by lines of marines, framed against a background of waving flags? What chance has any technique against presidential "non-political speeches" which are displayed even by pro-Willkie newspapers in headlines reading: "Roosevelt urges unity to prepare defense."

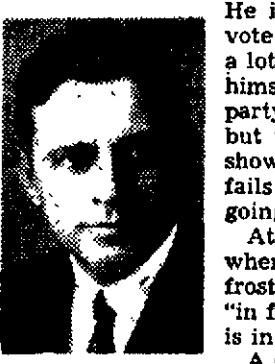

The White House says Mr. Roosevelt doesn't know yet whether his speech to the teamsters' union a few days hence will be political or non-political. That is funny, even to the New Dealers who tell you that President Roosevelt is conducting the stickiest political campaign that was ever staged. They are correct.

Even poor old tongue-tied Coolidge, who was a good politician but the world's worst political spell-binder—next to Hoover—took his re-election in 1924 with the greatest of ease. He just went solemnly through the motions of being president. Against him was one of the smoothest lawyers in the United States, John W. Davis, the Morgan lawyer. Davis was then in his prime as a favorite in the courts and could talk the supreme court around to his idea any day in the week. But when he tried his persuasive arts on the public, they went completely sour. He was as ineffective on the stump as Landon. He was ineffective because he was behind a trend. Landon was behind a trend. Hoover, as president running for re-election, was ineffective because he was behind a trend, instead of in front of it.

President In Office Has Big Advantage

Today the trend overwhelmingly favors a president in office. Any president would benefit by it in this time of national crisis if he showed any disposition to act at all. Roosevelt is a president made to order for this political situation. He plays it for everything there is in it.

Issues that normally would have shaken him seem to lose their force under the stress of the period. Spending? What can Willkie do with that issue when the whole country including himself is for the heaviest kind of defense expenditures. It is a gigantic public-works project which is already beginning to spread prosperity. Ladies are buying 20 per cent more furs, in some cities, than a year ago. Defense and prosperity. Who is worrying about the budget? Who cares about Roosevelt cutting corners to make a deal with Britain over naval and air bases, so long as we get such added defense?

Thinkers may well be disturbed at much that is happening, but what chance has a thought in these times? Who cares about the third term? The Republicans have barely mentioned it.

There is a trend but it is in the direction other governments have followed in times of crisis, in the direction of strong personal government. The trend is to the man of action. Roosevelt, on his presidential throne, personifies that role. It leaves Willkie just another fellow on the outside, talking his head off while events march on, paying him no heed.

Three Commemorative Stamps are on Sale

Three new commemorative stamps are available at the post office, according to Stephen D. Balliet, postmaster. The 3-cent stamp in commemoration of the 400th anniversary of the Coronado expedition through the southwestern states has an oval central design reproduced from the painting "Coronado and his Captains" by Gerald Cassidy.

Two issues in the famous American series have been placed on sale, the 1-cent Gilbert Charles Stuart and the 2-cent James A. McNeill Whistler. Three more of the artists series will be placed on sale during the next month, 3-cent August Saint Gaudens and 5-cent Daniel Chester French, Sept. 17, and 10-cent Frederick Remington, Oct. 1. A series of five stamps in commemoration of inventors will be available in October.
